Bright Spots and Sad.
All That Man Can Be.
Mr. Barbour's Appointment.
Dangerous Youth.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2

THERE IS some gloom in moving pictures, centered here. High finance which puts hundreds of millions into "pictures" wishes it had the money out and is wondering how to get it out.

The answer is nothing but a natural born moving picture man can do it. No high pressure efficiency person can deal with the gamut of temperament that stretches from John Barrymore to John Gilbert, and from Mary Pickford to Greta Garbo.

THERE ARE bright spots in the movies also. One such spot yesterday was a trinity composed of Nicholas M. Schenck, from New York, president of Loews, Inc.; Louis B. Mayer, who runs Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for Loews, out here, and Irving Thalberg, a young genius who does the producing and directing, selecting plays and players and improving them after he gets them.

As regards movie prospects they remind you of the three little Japanese figures that refuse to SEE, HEAR OR SPEAK any evil.

They think all the old-time glory will come back many times multiplied and meanwhile Loews is making excellent profits.

Nicholas M. Schenck, who hastily bought control of that enterprise, some time ago, made no mistake.

THE YOUTH of the land including romantic young ladies, will become more and more interested in a young "leading man" named Clark Gable whom Irving Thalberg has just selected for an important production in which Gable will appear as a clergyman.

MR. GABLE, a powerful young person, is rather like an English clergyman in real life who produced an excellent spiritual impression on British coal miners in his congregation by inviting the best of them to get in the ring with him and knocking them out.

It is said Mr. Thalberg will invite Carnera, the giant Italian, or Campolo, the massive Argentinian, to appear and be knocked out in one scene with Clark Gable.

"On the lot" you are told that the beautiful Estelle Taylor says Clark Gable is everything that a man possibly could be.

Having married Jack Dempsey, she should know.

GOV. LARSON, of New Jersey, has appointed W. Warren Barbour to succeed Dwight W. Morrow as United States Senator from New Jersey. This appointment would please Mr. Morrow, as it pleases Mr. Morrow's friends and neighbors, among whom this writer is included.

Shortly before his death Mr. Morrow had persuaded Mr. Barbour to assist him by looking after Republican finances in New Jersey.

Mr. Morrow would applaud the appointment of Mr. Barbour, an able American businessman, engaged in manufacturing on a great scale, as was his father before him, one who devotes much time to public service in his state.

THIS WARM Western Coast is disturbed by strangers coming on foot and on freight cars without tickets. The number is so great that for the protection of local populations and wanderers themselves, the Governors of the warm states may be compelled to establish labor camps and take other drastic action.

P. G. SPILSBURY, of Phoenix, Ariz., one of Walter S. Gifford's assistants in the unemployment relief campaign, has been studying the migration from the cold East and Middle West to this warm country, concerning which the wanderers say:

"At least we shall not freeze to death here."

The number of the travelers on freight trains is so great, according to Mr. Spilsbury, that railroads cannot cope with the situation.

A MAJORITY of the wanderers are very young men, the average age being 19. Thousands of them are high school graduates that found no work waiting for them, and in many cases, found their homes broken up because of the father's lack of employment.

The formation of an army of wanderers, numbering hundreds of thousands, young, beginning life the wrong way in idleness and uncertainty, would present a serious situation. These youthful unemployed, according to Mr. Spilsbury, are nearly all armed, carrying pistols, knives, or other weapons.

HIS SUGGESTION, which will receive careful attention, from Mr. Gifford and the President, is that the Army of the United States should take charge of these boys, clothe, feed, and train them, in Army camps that already exist, and provide them with certificates of training that will help them to find a place in industry's army, when times improve.

THE LATEST suggestion concerning money is British, and, according to E. S. Simmons, financial editor of the Los Angeles Herald, involves a financial league of nations, with an international bank to control all the world's gold.

England, having lost her gold reserve, forced off gold basis, thinks the gold in the world is "badly distributed."

In the fable, the fox that lost its tail thought the other foxes should cut theirs off, but the other foxes wouldn't.

Uncle Sam and France have practically all of the world's gold and will not cut off their

EXPLOSION OF BOILER IMPERILS FIREMEN

Julia Belle Swain Burns to Water-Line While Moored Here; Leap Saves Man

Fire early today wrote a blazing finale to the long career of the Julia Belle Swain, dance and excursion boat of Pittsburgh's three rivers, as she lay at moorage alongside the Becks Run icebreaker on the south side of the Monongahela.

Six fire companies battled futilely to check the flames as they spread through the aged and dry timbers of the steamer's superstructure.

LEAPS INTO RIVER

The fire started shortly after 11 o'clock while Howard Morris, of 1312 Sterling street, who had chartered the ship for an excursion, was alone on the boat.

Morris said he was on the top deck when he smelled smoke. He then saw flames leaping from the kitchen and boiler room. He upset two barrels of water into the kitchen and the flames belched through with renewed vigor.

Finding it useless to fight the flames, Morris leaped into the river and swam ashore to sound the alarm.

BLAST PERILS FIREMEN

Firemen fighting the blaze were endangered early in the battle as one of the boat's boilers exploded, hurling flaming debris for a hundred feet or more.

The Julia Belle Swain was owned by Attorney Humphrey Morris and was built in Santa Rosa, Fla., in 1913.

For several years she cruised the Mississippi before being bought in Peoria, Ill., by Morris, about 10 years ago. Shortly afterwards, the Julia Belle Swain made her first Pittsburgh appearance and for the last eight or nine years has restricted her activities almost entirely to the Monongahela, Allegheny and upper Ohio.

SECOND CRAFT TO BURN

Burning of the boat removes the second of Pittsburgh's famous dance boats from the river. The Homer Smith, rechristened the Greater Pittsburgh and even better known than the Julia Belle Swain, burned in the Ohio River about a year ago.

FORDHAM GRID PLAYER DIES; TOLL NOW 31

Star Tackle Hurt in Game With Bucknell; Man Who Supplanted Him Paralyzed

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Cornelius Murphy, giant tackle and "iron man" of the Fordham University football team, died today in the Fordham infirmary as a result of injuries received in the Bucknell game two weeks ago. His death marked the thirty-first fatality this season directly traceable to the game.

Murphy, running down the field under a kick, was "taken out" cleanly by a Bucknell player in the final quarter of that game. His head struck the ground and his sudden limpness warned Trainer Jake Weber that something was seriously wrong. Murphy was carried off the field while the crowd cheered frantically.

Today Murphy breathed his last with those cheers still ringing in his ears. On one side of him stood Dr. Gerald Carroll, university physician, and on the other the white-faced Father Aloysius J. Hogan, president of Fordham University, who had kept the death vigil.

BELIEVED RECOVERING

Immediately after his injury Murphy had been taken to the Fordham Hospital. His injury had been diagnosed as concussion of the brain, a fairly common injury to football men. Last Saturday he seemed so far on the road to recovery that he was transferred to the infirmary for convalescence. Yesterday he took a turn for the worse when hemorrhages resulted from the head injury.

Even then he was not thought to be in danger, and this morning when Fordham heard that he had died, the student body walked in stunned silence to classes which had little interest for them.

SUBSTITUTE PARALYZED

While relieving Murphy after his injuries removed him from the Bucknell game, John Szymanski, of New Britain, Conn., substitute tackle, was hurt, apparently much worse than Murphy. Szymanski is still in Fordham Hospital paralyzed on one side.

Murphy was 21, a resident of Greenfield, Mass., a junior and one of the greatest linemen ever to play for Fordham. Yesterday several of the New York newspapers picked all New York teams and the name of Con Murphy was on several of them.

He was a bruising, crashing type of tackle, who seemed to revel in the hard going and hand-to-hand battle of line play.

He had never been seriously hurt before in a game and they called him an iron man because he played through many of Fordham's major games without asking for "time out" or without being replaced by a substitute.

FIRST CONGRESS DRY LAW VOTE ASSURED

Republican and Democratic Leaders Favor Showdown; Bingham for Referendum

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—An opportunity to have both the Senate and House vote on prohibition during the session which starts Monday was virtually assured today. It will be the first test vote since the Eighteenth Amendment was written into the Constitution.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican floor leader, said although he believes the economic issues should be disposed of first, "if the prohibition question does come up I shall interpose no objections." He announced his opinion that the Senate is "overwhelmingly dry."

Meanwhile, Representatives Rainey, of Illinois, candidate for Democratic floor leader, and Snell, of New York, Republican nominee for speaker, declared in favor of the House voting on the dry issue. Snell is listed as a dry.

FAVORS TEST

Rainey said:

"Economic issues should properly receive chief attention this session, but continual controversy over prohibition will operate to keep them in the background. I favor having a vote and getting done with it. Too, a vote before the national election of next year will have a clarifying effect."

Leaders of the anti-prohibition fight were jubilant of this today, following a decision by Republican leaders to urge a change in rules which would make possible the dry law vote.

The Republican conference, after receiving from its rules committee a proposed change under which 145 members could force a vote, devoted four hours to lesser matters and planned to consider the discharge rule today.

UP TO DEMOCRATS

Even though the Republicans go on record for a liberalization of rules, under which the prohibition question could be brought to a vote, the Democratic caucus on Saturday probably will hold the key to the question.

The same fight of "gag" rules is being made in the Democratic ranks, by drys as well as anti-drys.

Senator Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, is going to push a prohibition referendum resolution providing for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. This must first get past the Judiciary Committee headed by Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Mitchell was asked by Representative Wood, of Indiana, to tell the cost of enforcing prohibition. Wood was chairman of the last Appropriations Committee. He asked Mitchell to include the Prohibition Bureau, Coast Guard, Bureau of Industrial Alcohol and court costs.

MISSING BRIDEGROOM

—Is This 19-Year-Old Newest Racket Victim?

MR. AND MRS. PHILIP PIAZZA . . . WEDDING TWO WEEKS AGO

The newlywed Piazzas—he's 19, she's 16—probably parted by death today, two weeks after their wedding. His car, lights burning, doors open, unfired bullets and a "gin, case, barrel, steam" notebook in it, was found on Sixteenth Street Bridge. He's missing.

BODY HURLED OFF BRIDGE, CLUE SHINT

River Searched as Auto of Victim Is Found on Span; Book Links Bootleg Racket

A 19-year-old boy, married two weeks ago, today appeared to be the victim of Pittsburgh's latest racket murder.

Substantial clues indicated he was either dropped from the Sixteenth Street Bridge to drown in the Allegheny River or taken elsewhere and slain.

The missing boy was Philip Piazza, of 140 Watkins avenue, Bellevue.

NOTEBOOK IN CAR

Piazza's car, both doors open, the lights burning, was found on the bridge last night by the night watchman, Joseph Miller.

In the car was found, besides six loaded shells, a notebook which police said contained these entries:

"One case steam—1 good.
"Tony—half case steam.

At her honeymoon apartment in Bellevue, Piazza's 16-year-old bride, who was Lena Brock, of 947 Western avenue, was hoping against hope that the clues which indicated her husband's death were misleading. She told police she last saw her husband early last night.

REWARD OFFERED

Joseph Brock, grocer, who conducts a store at the Western avenue address, and another at 16 East General Robinson street, said he would offer a reward of $100 for the recovery of the body, or information leading to the whereabouts of his son-in-law.

A brother, Michael Piazza, revealed that Philip had left his former home at 4459 Lucerne street, Ross Township, just beyond Bellevue, with the intention of meeting his bride and going to a theater.

Police traced ownership of the abandoned car through the license plates. Five of the six shells found in the machine were steel-jacketed and intended for an automatic pistol. The sixth was lead.

FEW WITHDRAW BANK REFUND

Only four persons were on hand at 9 a. m. today when the doors of the Bank of Pittsburgh, closed since September 21, opened to start payment of 50 per cent on all its deposits.

Not more than 50 persons appeared in the first half hour. Each was given a "dividend order," cashable by the First National Bank.

A large majority of those receiving the orders immediately deposited them with the First National, which had established a temporary office in the Bank of Pittsburgh quarters for the purpose of cashing the vouchers or receiving deposits.

Bank officials had anticipated heavy cash withdrawals and a long lineup when the windows opened.

Today's dividend orders were ready for 850 depositors, and involved $3,650,410. C. O. Thomas, the bank's receiver, said additional notices will be mailed each day, scheduled to complete the dividend payment by December 10.

Serum Fails to Cure Hiccoughing Victim

MT. VERNON, O., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—An injection of serum failed to cure the protracted hiccoughing attack that has weakened Carl Horlacher, 39, and his physician said he probably would be removed to a Columbus hospital today.

Mortgage Swindler Ordered From City

I. L. Gillespie, special assistant in the Public Safety Department, today said he had ordered out of town a man who had been collecting appraisal fees on a supposedly spurious offer to lend money on mortgages or to renew mortgages.

After the appraisal fee, ranging from $10 up, was paid, Gillespie said, the property owner was informed the value of realty did not justify the loan. He urged all persons seeking mortgage money to deal with reputable firms only.

Mix Gains Rapidly, Able to Sit Up

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Recovery of Tom Mix, motion picture and circus star, has proceeded so rapidly after his dangerous attack of peritonitis, that last evening he was able to sit up in bed. He consulted with his business advisor and read a few of the hundreds of telegrams of sympathy sent during his illness.

Reports from doctors said Norman Taurog, film director, and Fred Niblo, Jr., son of the director, were recovering from appendicitis operations.

H. R. M'CREADY TO REWED

Less than 48 hours after his wife had been granted a divorce, Harrison R. McCready, 28, of Fox Chapel Manor, obtained a license to marry in Cumberland, Md. The second wife to be is Marguerite Helen Heasley, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Harriet Heasley, mother of the bride-to-be, said:

"They must have gotten the preacher out of bed. They left here at 2 a. m., accompanied by my son, Aaron, 24, in Mrs. McCready's car."

According to Mrs. Heasley, McCready and her daughter have known each other for eight years and were friends before McCready's former marriage.

Mrs. Margaret L. McCready, of 548 North Sheridan avenue, was granted a divorce by Judge Elder W. Marshall on Monday, 10 days after she had testified in court to drunken orgies of her husband. Celebrating McCready's birthday after their marriage in 1928, Mrs. McCready testified, he upset the dinner table, the turkey landing in the lap of Anjeannette Hunter, Western Pennsylvania women's golf champion. The testimony was corroborated by the latter.

Miss Heasley lived at 5810 Hays street, Pittsburgh. She is 21 years old, attended Peabody High School and was employed at the Pittsburgh Auto Equipment Company.

CAPONES PART IN PRISON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Ralph Capone, of Chicago, serving a term at Leavenworth Federal Prison for violation of the income tax laws, has been ordered transferred to the McNeil Island prison in Washington state, the Department of Justice announced today.

This action was taken in order that members of the Capone clique may be kept as nearly as possible, in separate federal institutions to guard against any possible conspiracy.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Frank Nitti, known as the "enforcer" for the Capone gang, and Sam Gusik, collector and vice overseer, are serving time here along with Ralph Capone. Al Capone and Jack Gusik, the scar-faced leader's business manager, have been sentenced to terms in Leavenworth, but are awaiting action on appeals from their convictions on income tax charges.

Father Injured After Child Dies; Car Hits Man

A few minutes after his year-old daughter, Ruth, died in St. Francis Hospital, Hayes was taken there himself, dazed and badly bruised from an auto collision in Millvale.

He was on the way from the hospital to his mother's home in Spring Hill to tell her of the child's death when the accident occurred.

Pittsburgh and Millvale police said that just before the Millvale wreck, the car Hayes was driving struck John Watterson, 31, of 1308 Decatur street, as he stood in front of the Fried & Reineman Packing Company, in East Ohio street, near the Millvale Borough line.

An employe of the packing company told police the car did not stop after striking Watterson, who was taken to the West Penn Hospital with a broken arm. He gave them the car's license number.

Millvale police, searching for the alleged hit-and-run car, found it when the collision occurred.

Al Smith Turns Canvasser To Raise Jobless Fund

Puffing a black cigar, but wearing a felt hat instead of the brown hard lid, the former Governor trudged through his Greenwich Village neighborhood for the unemployed today.

Into I. L. Romanoff's drugstore he popped so suddenly that an old gentleman sitting at the soda fountain spilled a glass of water on the ex-Governor's trouser leg. Al's voice boomed:

"I'm from the emergency unemployment fund. I came to see if you wouldn't help out the hungry folks, Mr. Romanoff."

The druggist said:

To a delicatessen proprietor next door the approach was a little different. Smith asked with a smile:

"Your neighbor gave $5. What can you do?"

"Well, I guess I can double that."

There were other donations, including $3 from a laundryman. And there were no refusals. It was a test of the house-to-house canvass possibilities of a city-wide committee Smith heads.

PINCHOT'S $129,000,000 PROGRAM FOR RELIEF SHELVED

$20,500,000 COMPROMISE PLAN LIKELY

Governor Salvages Several Features, Including Tax On Cigarets and Gasoline

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot's $129,000,000 unemployment relief program today collapsed, and in its place were laid the first timbers of a compromise $20,500,000 relief structure to be constructed by friends and foes of the Governor during the session of the Legislature.

Out of the wreckage a series of "hotting from within and incessant broadside by Organization" leaders the Governor managed to salvage several features of his original program. These are:

1.—A cigaret tax of one cent per 10 cigarets.

2.—An amended gasoline tax of one cent per gallon for 15 months. This replaces the administration-proposed tax of two cents per gallon for two years.

Two of the Governor's favorite measures, the prosperity bond issue and a tax on billboard advertising, went into the scrap heap.

FAINT PRAISE

Gov. Pinchot in approving the compromise measures with faint praise—good so far as they go—firmly believes that it does not cover the ground.

It was reliably reported that in addition to the proposals which the Senate leaders promised to support, the executive plans also to push his prosperity bond and loan contribution method of raising $35,000,000, and this, to be expended by a new state commission. The Senate leaders turned thumbs down on both proposals and told the Governor they believe those measures cannot pass.

Adjournment of the special session before Christmas now appears likely as a result of the compromise. Leaders will strive to wind up their work by December 17. If that becomes impossible, December 23 is likely to be the closing day.

BLOC TO FIGHT

The Pinchot-Senate agreement will not affect the decision of a group of House members to push a program which they outlined last week, spokesmen of the group assert. This plan, which eliminates all new taxes except the gasoline tax, has as a feature a bill for state appropriation of $10,000,000 to poor district officials for emergency relief.

A similar bill was discussed by the Senate conferees yesterday, but was abandoned when Attorney General Schnader said such an appropriation would be in conflict with the constitution.

Amendments to bills to make them conform to the new program will be ready for presentation when the two houses resume session next Monday night.

golden calfs, even to please Britain.

THE FACT is that gold now the world's only real money is not sufficiently plentiful to carry on the world's business and the gold monopoly by France and the United States makes the situation idiotic.

You wouldn't try to run the United States Postoffice with 19 letter carriers. You can't run the world's business with an amount of gold that totals only 10 per cent of one year's income of the United States in good times.

If the British wish to settle the important money problem let them accept silver as good money throughout the British Empire, saving to France and America.

"We don't need your gold, although we are willing to accept one ounce of it in exchange for 20 ounces of silver."

REMORSE GRIPS 'SHOOTING DRY'

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Remorse and despair today gripped Daniel L. Gilday, 65-year-old crusader against vice and liquor, as doctors despaired for the life of Herman Knol, 17-year-old boy he shot, who has developed peritonitis.

Gilday, alleged to have been intoxicated and to have shot the youth when he and another boy tried to help him to his home, sat in his cell where he is held without bond and said:

"I can't go back to my family and I've lost all my friends. I don't know what to do if I get out of this. I wish I could lie down and die."

CONVENT BLAZE ROUTS 15 NUNS

Fifteen nuns of the Order of St. Francis were forced to flee their convent, and two women were overcome by smoke, in two fires that raged last night in the Mt. Oliver and downtown districts as cold weather in the city continued.

The nuns fled from St. Henry's convent early last night when fire broke out in the basement and spread to the top of the three-story brick structure at Clover and Charcot streets, Mt. Oliver.

The nuns were removed to the parish house adjacent to the convent. Many slept in neighboring residences.

The Rev. Joseph Meyer, pastor of the church, rushed into the dwelling to see that all nuns had departed.

Mrs. Matilda Espey, 55, of 420 Fisk street, proprietor of a beauty shop on the seventh floor of the Aronson Building, 339 Fifth avenue, was led from her establishment by police when fire broke out in Morry's clothing store on the second floor of the building early last night.

Her assistant, Miss Beatrice Grabiak, 30, of 400 East Ohio street, was conducted to safety by Patrolmen David Wolfson and Joseph McCormick, of Central Station Patrol. Both women were affected by smoke.

CHICAGO IN DRY WAR OVER KIN OF HOOVER

City Council Demands Same Leniency for All Held On Prohibition Charges

International News Service

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—The Chicago City Council today was committed to a vigorous attack on prohibition and a sardonic criticism of the difference in the cases of two dry law defendants, Charles L. Wiley, Chicago war veteran, and Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover.

In a resolution adopted yesterday the alleged discrimination existing in prohibition enforcement was assailed and non-co-operation of law officers as a method of opposing the Eighteenth Amendment was advocated.

INIQUITOUS LAW

The resolution calls upon all Chicago officers to absent themselves and otherwise refuse to give their aid when they are summoned to testify against defendants in prohibition cases.

Sponsored by Alderman Thomas J. O'Grady, the resolution was passed by the Council with but one dissenting vote.

Wiley, an American Legionnaire, was arrested in a Chicago court when he attempted to absolve his janitor of a liquor charge by volunteering the testimony that he had asked the janitor to make some home brew.

After painting the virtues of liquors as "the blessings of nature" and characterizing the Eighteenth Amendment as "an iniquitous law," the resolution said of the Wiley case:

"In our city a citizen who had offered his life toward the preservation of his country during the war, was arrested in open court as a law violator when he asked leniency for his janitor, who had employed nature in the preparation of cups of cheer for a gathering of veterans."

RESOLUTION CHEERED

Turning to the case of Leavitt, who was recently arrested in California, the resolution declares:

"Whereas, in Santa Monica, Cal., another citizen—but not a common citizen—was apprehended beating a discreet retreat from a suspected resort with 19 pints of spirituous liquor in a sack.

"Whereas, when this citizen came before the bar of justice for trial, the arresting agents were reported to be busily engaged elsewhere in the performance of their duty.

"Resolved, that when citizens of this city find themselves before the bar of court to answer to a violation of law springing from the obnoxious amendment, the agents of this district be sent elsewhere to perform their duty—preferably to the nethermost boundaries of the district, or beyond the county's borders."

The resolution was approved amid cheers.

JERSEY ELECTS DEMOCRAT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Elated by victory in New Jersey yesterday, the Democrats are becoming sanguine over the possibility of taking the last remaining vacant House seat in the First New Hampshire District.

The party holds 219 seats, two more than a bare majority, as a result of the election of Percy Stewart, of Plainfield, N. J., in the normally Republican Fifth Congressional District.

The leaders, among them Speaker-candidate Garner, of Texas, called the result an omen for 1932's presidential election. Stewart's victory had converted a normal 35,000 Republican majority into an edge of 1,500 to 2,000 for the Democrats.

Five out of seven recent elections to fill House vacancies have favored the Democrats. Three of the five victories took seats which had been occupied by Republicans.

WOMEN DEMAND DRY REPEAL

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform renewed the pledge through its executive committee here yesterday to work for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, abandoning all thoughts of modification as a "mere catch-all panacea."

Mrs. Charles E. Sabin, of New York, national chairman, said she considered of especial significance the membership gains made in "so-called dry states" and the fact that the membership of 411,000 now exceeds by 28,000 that last reported for the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Mrs. Graham Dougherty, of Wyncote, Pa., chairman of the Pennsylvania division, told the executive committee that "the wet vote will put Pennsylvania in the Democratic column if Republican leadership remains as vacillating, weak, utterly regardless of public opinion as it is today."

PASTORS HERE EXPLAIN DRY POLL VOTE

Point to Quick Revocation By Council on Learning Interpretation of Vote

Pittsburgh ministers returning from yesterday's Harrisburg meeting of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches today explained their attitude toward a committee report which contained an apparent indorsement of a national referendum on prohibition.

Adoption of a resolution specifically opposing such a referendum after the pro-referendum interpretation had been published was pointed to as representing the actual, long-standing attitude of the council.

SPEEDILY REVOKED

News that the council had indorsed a prohibition referendum was published yesterday after the council had approved the report of its committee on social service. The report contained this expression:

"The announced purpose of the national parties' committees to keep the wet issue out of the planks, and to advocate a referendum, is commendable."

Everybody but the ministers apparently understood this to mean that a prohibition referendum was commendable in the eyes of the committee and in the eyes of the council. However, when the council learned that this view was being taken, it hastened to put itself on record as opposed to such a referendum, with this resolution:

"The Pennsylvania Council of Churches records its opposition to any proposed referendum on the prohibition amendment."

CLAUSE MISUNDERSTOOD

The Rev. T. D. Edgar, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg, who attended the meeting, said:

"The Rev. Dr. L. K. Willman, pastor of a Wilkes-Barre Methodist Episcopal Church, is chairman of the Committee on Social Service. This committee is widely scattered and had had no opportunity of meeting, so Dr. Willman had written the various members, asking them certain questions, and then had assembled their replies into a long review of social conditions throughout the state, together with numerous proposed solutions. It was a composite affair, a review.

"I myself thought the reference to a prohibition referendum was a quotation from one of the numerous solutions mentioned—not a proposal of the committee or of Dr. Willman. The report contained no recommendations for us to vote on. The report simply was approved. I doubt that any member of the council interpreted the paragraph as containing any indorsement of a referendum. When one of the ministers went out to the street and found what was being published, the anti-referendum resolution was adopted at once."

SPONSOR'S VIEW

Dr. Willman said:

"The approval of such a referendum was implied, and it was accepted as a report. It was correct as you quoted it.

"The council's action later in the afternoon, as I understand, reverses that approval—but that is up to the council."

Dr. Willman was asked:

"Then you stand back of the report as it was first submitted and adopted?"

He replied:

Mitchell Opposes Federal Restrictions on Trade

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—A demand that the government confine its activities solely to keeping the channels of competition open and free and do nothing to obstruct or restrict the operation of the law of supply and demand was made today before the LaFollette Senate Committee by Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the National City Bank of New York.

The internationally known banker laid down this view in response to an inquiry from the committee as to his position on the desirability and feasibility of governmentally-controlled economic planning.

Mitchell replied that while he was eager to assist in any plan to improve certain conditions he did not consider it possible, under the American system of freedom of action, to eliminate business fluctuations.

Unquestionably a controlled economy would produce a smoother system than the present one, Mitchell declared, but he maintained that the American people would not tolerate such a dictatorship.

Mitchell attributed the depression to factors growing out of the World War. Reckless banking during the inflation period, he said, played a large part in the boom which finally burst in October, 1929. He admitted that the banks had failed to hold stock market speculations within safe bounds. He expressed the opinion, however, that the psychological situation had developed where the banks were unable to control the public speculative mania.

Coxey Submits Vet Bonus Plan to Hoover Aide

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Jacob S. Coxey, who, in 1894, led the famous "Coxey's Army" to Washington, today laid before Theodore Joslin, one of President Hoover's secretaries, a plan for improving the economic situation.

Coxey, now Mayor-elect of Massillon, O., suggested what he called a "new legal tender plan" in which the government would issue money without the support of the customary gold backing, and with it would pay additional bonus money to ex-service men.

While unconnected with new marches upon the capital, Coxey is sympathetic. And he is convinced of the efficacy of demonstrations. He argues:

"I won out."

Regarding marches to the capital, he explained:

"We didn't have any trouble until we got here. Well, at Pittsburgh there was a little. They made us camp there in the Exposition grounds.

"When we got to Washington I tried to get on the steps of the Capitol to make a talk. I got on the steps, but I couldn't talk. The police wouldn't let me. The police made all the trouble.

"Of course, the Communist agitators are bound to get into a thing like this. That is their means of working. But I don't think this is a Communistic move."

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2—(INS.))—Gov. James Rolph, Jr., today had under advisement the plea for a pardon for Tom Mooney made by Major James J. Walker, of New York, and his legal colleagues, Attorneys Frank P. Walsh and Aaron Sapiro, in one of the most dramatic and colorful public hearings in California history.

Although the Governor did not indicate his reaction to the impassioned pleas in behalf of Mooney, there was considerable speculation on the possibility that the convicted labor leader might be granted a Christmas pardon.

Against the prospect of a pardon by Christmas was the apparent fact that there is a strong public sentiment in California bitterly opposed to the liberation of Mooney.

NEAR-RIOT HALTED

And as if to accentuate the theatrical aspect of the proceedings, near-riot conditions prevailed outside the building where the hearing was staged. A police detail of several hundred officers put down alleged Communistic disorders and arrested 25 persons, including four women.

After the adjournment of the hearing, "Mother" Mooney pushed her way through the crowd and grasped the hands of Mayor Walker. She cried:

"God bless you, my boy!"

The Mayor, visibly affected, patted her hand and said:

COAST GUARDS SINK BOAT

WOODS HOLE, Mass., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—A Coast Guard speedboat early today brought into the Woods Hole Coast base as prisoners the crew of seven of the New Bedford motorboat Star, which it fired upon and sank off Westport Beach last night.

Two of the seven prisoners received burns as an explosion in the engine room of the Star set the boat afire.

The Star sank after burning.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Cecil McLeod, commanding the Coast Guard boat, reported that the Star disregarded his orders to halt and attempted to ram his craft. He then fired upon the Star's engine room. There was an explosion and the boat caught fire. He took the crew of seven off.

The Star was valued at $40,000. She was formerly a Canadian vessel, the Ammidde, and only recently had come under American registry.

WOMAN ROUTS 2 BURGLARS

George Tesh, of 40 East Roseridge avenue, Bellevue, went hunting for deer yesterday.

Not to be outdone, Mrs. Tesh went burglar hunting this morning.

Awakened shortly after midnight, Mrs. Tesh told Bellevue police, she heard someone prowling through the lower floor of her home. She got up and took a revolver from a dresser drawer.

Alarmed by the housewife's footsteps, the burglars, two of them, fled from the back door as Mrs. Tesh raised the bedroom window.

The girl and boy, selected as 1931 health champions in the 4-H Club competition, are Gertrude Heiks, of Dakota County, Neb., and William Sanders, of Johnson County, Ind.

Gertrude, who will be 16 tomorrow, admitted she does not like spinach or turnips. William, 18, said he hates parsnips as well as spinach.

Mah's Troops Launch Drive On Japanese; Tokio Balks League Compromise

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Harbin, Manchuria, said that a detachment of the cavalry of Gen. Mah Chan-Shan clashed today southwest of Hailun with Japanese forces and was driving them back.

The action was described as part of a counter-attack by Gen. Mah to recapture Tsitsihar, from which his army was driven in mid-November by the Japanese offensive on the Nonni River.

Hailun is Gen. Mah's birthplace and he retired there after his flight from Tsitsihar. Frequent reports have said he was reorganizing his army there, more than 200 miles east of its former position.

The Labor Federation intends to give full publicity to the report as soon as the investigator, Ross Holt, gets it here.

Japan Demands Control Of Neutral Zone

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service

QUAI D'ORSAY, PARIS, Dec. 2.—A new obstacle arose today in the path of the League of Nations Council in its efforts to effect an agreement between China and Japan in Manchuria with receipt of a telegram from the Japanese government in Tokio insisting upon virtual Japanese control of the proposed neutral zone around Chinchow.

The Japanese delegation was instructed by its government to demand that the entire neutral zone be placed under the administration of Mukden, which is now in Japanese hands.

This new development came as a complete surprise. In agreement upon the terms of a resolution providing for establishment of the neutral zone and appointment of a neutral commission of observers to study the entire situation, the council members, excluding China and Japan, were certain that victory was in sight.

That China will protest the new Japanese instructions with all the means at its disposal was a foregone conclusion. China considers the so-called "local Mukden government" mere puppets of Japan, placed in power after Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang was deposed as governor of Manchuria and chased out of his native province into Peiping.

Wife in 'Ski Girl' Case Deserted Own Child in Romance Years Ago

By WILLIAM RANDORF
International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—The odd marital tangle in which Mrs. Inez Connor sheltered in her home the child of her husband and her rival, Mary Gledhill, Canadian beauty, was revealed today as the second fantastic triangle in Mrs. Connor's life.

Russell H. Priest, son of a minister, whom she married six years before, obtained a divorce from her, naming William H. Connor as co-respondent, charging misconduct on the Pacific Coast.

GIRL RECOVERING

When the uncontested divorce was granted, Mrs. Priest, formerly Inez Noah, married Connor, who is now serving a term in a Vermont prison for forgery. It was Connor who asked his wife to take care of Miss Gledhill and the baby while he was incarcerated.

The details of Mrs. Connor's past, so closely paralleling the present curious triangle, were told in Malden by Connor's sister, Mrs. Etta L. Marshall, who declared:

"The only reason I can offer for her acts is, she probably remembers the time she left her own son behind her and the thought of that no doubt aroused her sympathy for the Gledhill girl."

Meanwhile, Miss Gledhill, recovering from a mysterious malady with which she was stricken when she imagined herself threatened with deportation on grounds of moral turpitude, was visited in the Nassau County Hospital by her mother, Mrs. Anne Peel Gledhill, who came here from Westmount, a suburb of Montreal.

MORE LETTERS SHOWN

Mrs. Connor showed a letter she had just received from her husband, who was accustomed to write to both women, sending them in one envelope. He said:

"I have heard of the trouble. I hope it will soon blow over. I am sorry for both of you.

"I see in the papers that May attempted suicide. She was always of such a jovial nature that I can't believe that. Do what you can for her."

A recent letter to Miss Gledhill also was shown by Mrs. Connor in it, Connor wrote:

"Dearest May: Why do you hate me so? I know I have done you wrong and am paying for it dearly and you will never know how I suffer.

"One thing I want you to know, if you do not already understand it. I was always true and faithful to you and always will be."

Mrs. Biddle Plans Lone Trek Into Alaska

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Edward M. Biddle, society woman of this city, today told of a lone trek she will soon make into Central Alaska to study customs and living conditions of native women for six months this winter.

The trip, she said, has been her cherished ambition since her girlhood reading of Arctic explorations.

Mrs. Biddle will carry two guns, a sleeping bag and two suitcases with cameras and photographic equipment. While she is considered an experienced hunter, she has never before traveled in such wild country, she said. In Alaska she will wear the hooded fur jacket, trousers and muklok of the Eskimo.

She said she expects to leave New York next week on the first lap of her trip to Seattle. From there she will go by boat to Seward, Alaska, thence by train 500 miles northward into the interior and the last 500 miles by dog sled to the environs of Nenana on the Yukon.

Vilhjalmur Stefanson, well-known Arctic explorer, and Dr. Gaston Burke, medical missionary to Fort Yukon, she said, have assisted her with plans for the trip.

MURREN NAMES M'GINLEY AIDE

James S. McGinley, 19 years a county detective and 10 years a justice of the peace in Mt. Lebanon since 1908, today was appointed assistant chief of the detective bureau.

He succeeds Harry Cochran, another veteran who, for years has been Chief George A. Murren's chief aide. Cochran kept from his work by ill health for the last six months, retires on pension today.

Mr. McGinley

McGinley's service in the bureau has been continuous except for a break from 1914 to 1918 when a change in administrations brought changes to the detective personnel.

He is one of the best known peace officers in the county having played prominent parts in hundreds of criminal cases. He is credited with being more responsible than any one other for the conviction of Paul Jaworski, who died in the electric chair for the murder of a mine paymaster.

COUNTY AX HITS KALTENBACH

The ax that County Commissioner E. V. Babcock swung as his first official act as chairman of the Board of County Commissioners decapitated E. C. Kaltenbach, consulting engineer, who was Director of Public Works Norman F. Brown's right-hand man.

At the office of the Department of Public Works today it was said that Kaltenbach is no longer with the county.

DUQUESNE MAN CLEARED OF VOTE FRAUD

A jury in Criminal Court today required only 10 minutes to acquit Frank Vassel, 23, of Duquesne, charged with voting in a district in which he did not live. The costs were placed on the county.

Vassel's was the second case of more than 100 growing out of the September primary to be tried. The jury believed his contention that he really lived in the First District of the First Ward in Duquesne in which he voted. He testified he had left his Third District residence after a quarrel with his stepfather.

Something NEW in Washable Prints

Our women's dress sections have been famous through several seasons, for prints that are washable—and every year about this time they bring out something different in them.

Just now, by way of patterns, it is silhouette prints, dainty Dresden prints, scatter flower and leaf prints, in lovely, bright colors on grounds of black, navy, green or brown. ...In fashions it is youthful bolero models, graceful, one-piece coat dresses, two-piece scallop-finished models, frocks with interesting sleeves and trimmings of solid-color crepe.

And best of all the new things about them is the price, with dresses in women's regular sizes 34 to 46, and half sizes 33½ to 43½, selling at

MEXICO LAUDS HEARST STAND FOR JUSTICE

Condemnation of Slaying of Students and Crime Reign In U. S. Wins High Praise

By ARTHUR CONSTANTINE
United States Service

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2.—Under the heading "Mr. Hearst has broken a lance in favor of Mexico," the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior set forth in its leading editorial today:

"It is a long time since we read in the press of any country an indictment so vigorous and so damning as that put forth over the name of the famous North American journalist William Randolph Hearst apropos of the acquittal of the sheriffs who assassinated the Mexican students Emilio Cortes Rubio and Manuel Garcia Gomez.

"This indictment was published Sunday and was reproduced by Excelsior.

CHARGES LIKE GUN SHOT

"The article by the North American journalism magnate must have caused an enormous sensation, for in that document charges succeed one another like shots from a cannon all directed unerringly and leaving the reader with a final impression of the demolishment and pulverization of the fortress.

"On this occasion Mr. Hearst shows in relief his grand independence, a criterion in an uprising against reigning injustice, and adopts a robust, live and stinging style in taking up the matter with all the force of conviction, enthusiasm and sincerity.

CHAMPION OF JUSTICE

"When, in a country where public opinion exists as a political and social force, there lifts his voice a man of this importance, denouncing errors and condemning vice, and who without egoistic interest and without passion takes the part of the side wounded by crime which there is no justice to rectify—when in that country truth expresses itself publicly with so much vigor that citizens observe and analyze, even in an atmosphere of desolation and pessimism, we have a right to believe there may still be hope for better days.

"Here is one to protest against immorality and crime. Not all mouths are closed nor are all men accomplices of criminals for—in a word—people do have leaders who point out the road to duty.

"Mr. Hearst in the shameful and lamentable Ardmore case has broken a lance in favor of Mexico, putting all the influence of the great journalist on the side of justice."

HELPING HAND TO AID MARCH

Hunger marchers who will arrive in Pittsburgh, Friday night in a fleet of 50 trucks on their way to a demonstration in Washington will be fed and housed for the night at the Helping Hand Association in Water street, and will also receive gasoline and oil from the same association. City Council has informed a committee of the Unemployed Council.

The marchers are to be taken care of in the same way on their return on December 9. Just how much gasoline and oil would be required was not stated by the Unemployed Council, but their representative B. Chapa said the tanks would be almost empty when the cars reached Pittsburgh.

Council has been advised by the law department that it cannot give direct aid to the hunger marchers but can assist them indirectly through a charitable organization.

CHILDREN'S TOY MATINEE TO HELP SANTA

Theaters Offer Free Show For Those Who Help Fill Yuletide Bag of Gifts

Here's an opportunity for every little boy and girl to get on Santa Claus' staff of assistants and do "their bit" in making less fortunate little boys and girls happy when the Christmas holidays come.

Sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, there will be a toy matinee tomorrow afternoon at every theater where the Junior Komic Club meets. The theaters will open at 2 o'clock for this matinee, and every youngster who presents a toy at the door will be admitted free.

The toys will all be placed on the stage and then be sent to the Pittsburgh Toy Mission, to be put in shape for distribution to the hospitals, the orphanages and the homes of children where the sunshine of Yuletide might not otherwise gleam if it were not for the boys and girls of the Junior Komic Club.

NEED IS GREAT

In the meantime the need for a distribution of this character is so urgent this year—of all years—that every little girl or boy, whether or not they are members of the Junior Komic Club, is invited to join in this worthy work. Just bring your toys to any one of the Warner theaters listed below, present them as your admission ticket, and do your part in giving sunshine to some other little girl or boy.

Incidentally, this is just the kind of service that the Junior Komic Club is organized for—it's in the creed of the organization. "I will do my best to spread good cheer," is one of the slogans of the thousands of boys and girls in this big club.

BRING IN TOYS

So, whether or not you belong to the Junior Komic Club, look over the toys you have on hand, make a sacrifice, pick out a fairly good one and take it to the Toy Matinee tomorrow. You'll feel better for having done it and you'll, at the same time, be entertained with a big motion picture show.

Get busy today! Get those toys ready for tomorrow! Do "your bit" for the other little boy or girl who might have a dismal Christmas if you didn't help. Mothers and fathers are invited to co-operate.

Here are the names of the theaters where toy matinees will be held: Harris (downtown), Arsenal, Belmar, Cameraphone, Enright, Harris (Etna), Kenyon, Manor, Mt. Oliver Harris, Plaza, Rowland (Wilkinsburg), Schenley, South Hills (Dormont), Prince (Ambridge) and Memorial (McKeesport).

EVERYONE SHOULD DRINK WATER IN THE MORNING

Italian Science Working Wonders on Headache and Stomach Sufferers With Simple, Internal Bathing

Why is it that right out of every ten people today are being made miserable, unhappy and inefficient by constant headaches?

Italian science startled the world by giving plain effervescent water before breakfast as the remedy. A homely treatment, but effective sometimes beyond belief. A form of intestinal bathing that makes sparkling, pure-faced, headache and stomach-acidity people take on new life, new appearance and new health.

The way the treatment works is on the same principle of washing out the intestines every morning before breakfast just like you wash dirt off your face and hands. For just as it is necessary to clean ashes from a furnace before a fire burns bright and clear, so it is necessary to wash out the stomach BEFORE food goes into it.

Otherwise you most likely cause a bad condition by mixing the food you eat with ptomaine-like accumulations in the stomach that virtually poison the fresh foods you put in it.

For that reason every man or woman—whether sick or well—is advised to drink each morning BEFORE BREAKFAST, one-half glass of water with two tablespoonfuls of ordinary Italian Bisnochi effervescent in it, followed by a large glass of plain water. That's the whole Italian treatment—tens of thousands of people today are crediting with near-miracles in the relief of constant headaches, sour stomach, acidity, constipation, "bilious" attacks and general lassitude and debility.

The Italian Bisnochi effervescent to put with water can be obtained in large cans at any store for a few cents. The way to pronounce the word is Bree-sno-kee—ordinary Italian Bisnochi. A few days of it will suffice to make most anyone a crank on the subject of intestinal bathing.

ALL IN A DAY By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers

IT'S BEEN a long time since I've seen Margie. We were great pals back in the days when she was one of the most famous girls in the Follies. I always liked her for her shrewdness, her spirit and her sense of humor. As time rolled by, I often wondered what she was doing and how she was getting along. But she had turned into an unsung New Yorker by this time, and news of her was very scarce.

If my memory isn't suffering from the depression, it was back in 1922 that Margie introduced herself to me. The press agent for the Follies—the late Bill Page—had publicized Margie in no small manner. She was known as the girl with the $1,000,000 legs, and the papers went for her pictures and her doings in a big way.

It was this same press agent who thought it might be a good idea to treat the Follies girls to an outing in an amusement park. He picked out the Palisades on the Hudson and tacked a notice on the bulletin board. He then arranged with an automobile company to provide some 15 cars for the girls, notified the papers that the stunt would be swell for pictures and color, and told the park to expect his gang on a certain afternoon.

My paper didn't send me with the mob. They got me out of bed at the unearthly hour of 3 in the afternoon and told me it might be a good idea if I ran over to the Palisades in my own car.

So over I went in my highly attractive Liberty motor car, model 1917, with no paint, one fender and a spare tire that didn't have the strength of a good rubber band. Just as I drove into the park the storm broke. I pulled as close as I could to one of the buildings and tried to raise a window that never had worked since the day I won the alleged car in a village poker game. I was cursing fluently when a beautiful blonde dashed out of the building and into the seat beside me.

"How much room you got?" she demanded. And before I could answer she was counting out loud.

"Two more in the front," she muttered. "Four in the back seat and two on the floor. Hey, kids, this guy can take about nine more."

There was an answering yell from inside, and 10 of Flo's most glorified beauties pushed their way into my ancient, though strictly honorable, machine.

"You can drive over to New York now," said the blonde beside me. Suddenly she laughed loudly.

"Didn't even tell you who we were," she smiled. "Well, my name's Margie . . . and we're all with the Follies. Not that it makes much difference, but who are you?"

I told her.

"Well," she returned, "I'm glad to know you. You're the first reporter I ever met that had a car. If I can stretch the point far enough and call this thing a car. What's new in the paper racket?"

I asked her why the girls hadn't gone home in the cars that brought them.

"Some of them did," she replied cheerfully. "But half of us were not so lucky. Our chauffeurs proceeded to get beautifully plastered, and there are about eight of them who are sleeping it off right now. If you hadn't come along, we'd still be there. See how life goes, Mr. Newspaperman?"

So Margie and I became friends. I like that kind of a kid . . .

What becomes of Follies girls? Well, the case of Margie is one picture. After a year or so had rolled by, Margie decided she had enough of the stage. And, aside from an occasional bit in pictures, she stepped out of the theatrical atmosphere.

There was a man, of course. One very special man—and Margie was strictly daffy about him. He loved her, too, but it was one of those cases of a young son and a wife who didn't understand. He didn't want to lose that boy, and his wife couldn't see a separation or a divorce on sensible grounds. So there was Margie—in the middle.

In the end they decided that it would be best if they could forget each other. They tried not calling, and the man went home to his wife. That torture lasted exactly 24 hours. Back went Margie to her man, and the situation was worse than ever.

It was Margie who finally suggested the only way out. As long as fate wouldn't permit them to become man and wife, it was Margie's belief that either she or the man would have to leave New York. A week later it was the man who went. He went to South Africa—and as Margie stood on the pier and watched that boat sail into the night a certain spark went out of her life.

She began to enjoy a drink with too much relish. She didn't watch her diet in the fashion she had always done. She lost a great deal of the vivacity that had always distinguished her. She disappeared from her usual haunts.

Occasionally there was a card or a call from her. Perhaps every six months or so, there would be a cheery letter or a note. But that is nothing unusual. There must be 40 or 50 men and women who do the same. Suddenly the calls or the letters stop, and I hear from them no more . . .

Last week I had a great surprise. Margie phoned me. And it was the old Margie. She had great news. A motion picture company had signed her to a long-term contract, and she was leaving for Hollywood this week.

"Isn't it just swell?" she enthused. "They think I'm going to be great, and I'm going to try like the devil to make good.

"I haven't touched a drop of liquor in six months. I look better than I ever did. I feel like a kid again. I'm just about the happiest girl in the world."

She invited me to a party they were giving her as a farewell. I told her I couldn't go, but I wished her all the luck in the world.

At that big party Margie was probably the only one in the place who refused to drink. She was on the wagon, she said, and she was going to stay on. She left rather early in order to get a good night's sleep.

On her way home her car skidded into a pole. She has 14 stitches in her face. Her movie contract is off, and she won't be out of the hospital for a long time.

It's all pretty tough on a regular kid who had the nerve to fight her way back. But that's the way it goes . . .

Christmas Jingles No. 21

This completed "Christmas Jingle" must be in the mail before midnight, Thursday, December 3, addressed to CHRISTMAS JINGLES, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Write No. 21 on the lower left-hand corner of your envelope. Names of winners will be published in the Sun-Telegraph one week from day this incomplete "jingle" appears.

'JINGLES' CITE NEED OF TIRES

Automobile tire dealers should be overloaded with business if the answers to Sun-Telegraph "Christmas Jingle" No. 14 are any indication. Ninety-nine out of every one hundred "jingles" based their last line on the necessity for "new tires."

If they didn't actually wear down any tires they certainly exhausted the points of a lot of lead pencils telling why Timothy Shires needed "new tires." It was left, however, to Walter Reisch, 210 Virginia avenue, Aspinwall, to get what the judges thought was the best slant at a last line notwithstanding the fact that this $5 prize winner was based on "new tires."

A mail clerk named Timothy Shires
Was peeved at late holiday buyers;
He cranked up his car
And he traveled so far

Mrs. Ida Sissman, Arlington Apartments, E. E., Pittsburgh; Miss Anne O'Brien, 312 Bayard Manor, Pittsburgh; Curtis Finley, Georgetown, Pa.; Mrs. D. B. Barnhart, 236 Main street, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.; Miss Dorothy Hunkele, 3139 Kelvin street, Pittsburgh.

Try your hand on No. 21, appearing on this page today. If you submit what the judges think is the best of all "last lines" sent in you get a check for $5. The five next best "last lines" will each be awarded $1.

All readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with the exception of employes, are invited to enter the "Christmas Jingle" contest. You can send in as many last lines as you like. Equal awards will be paid to readers whose answers are tied in the judging. You do not have to buy a Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. You may examine the files of this newspaper at the public library or at any one of the offices of the Sun-Telegraph, where you many make a tracing of the "Christmas Jingles" blank if you wish.

Each Sun-Telegraph "Christmas Jingle" will be consecutively numbered.

Soft Corns

Those itching, burning, painful torments on the balls of your feet and between your toes need not cost you another hour of agony.

They will respond at once to a brisk rubbing with Moone's Emerald Oil. Your druggist says to use the oil two or three times a day, and bind your corns at night with a cloth soaked in the oil. Your corns will shrivel up and scale off as easy as can be in just a day or two. Money back if they don't.

AD CLUB HEARS 10-YEAR PLAN

The ten-year plan evolved to revive business in the Northwest, Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana was explained to members of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club at a luncheon yesterday by Charles F. Collisson, farm editor of the Minneapolis Tribune. The plan was sponsored by F. E. Murphy, Tribune publisher.

Discussing the plan, which is now in its second period, Mr. Collisson said:

"Good business and ample buying power, sound finance and real prosperity are its tangible results. It attached a shock absorber to business for the rough and rocky road of 1931. This plan can be made to work anywhere in America if modified to fit the local conditions. It is a national restyler of national business."

CHARGES FRAUD, ASKS DIVORCE

Charging that his marriage was brought about by fraud and coercion, Wilbert H. Peifer, 926 Perrysville avenue, North Side, asked a divorce from Gladys Peifer, living on the farm of her father, Fletcher McKinney, near Gibsonia, in Common Pleas Court. They were married April 28, 1930.

Homer E. Connelly, 105 South Lexington street, charged cruelty and indignities in his divorce suit against Mary Connelly, Arlington Apartments. They were married August 24, 1921, and parted September 15 last.

Elma Etta Hughes asked a divorce from Edgar E. Hughes on the grounds of cruelty and indignities. The address of both was given as 4614 Fifth avenue. They were married August 10, 1927.

Throng at Ames Rites Jam Church

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 2.—(INS.)—A crowd of 15,000 persons overflowed the Fourth Congregational Church yesterday as funeral services were conducted for Robert Ames, screen and stage star.

The mourners within the church included Mrs. C. B. Claire, mother of Ina Claire, who was with the Ames family group. Several hundred persons viewed the cortege outside Cedar Hill Cemetery.

REFORM GROUP URGES CUT IN ARMS

No Compromise on Dry Law, Sabbath Observance Demanded by Dr. Pearce

Urging that the United States take a leading part in the world disarmament conference at Geneva February 2, the National Reform Association held its annual meeting in the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, yesterday.

No compromise on prihibition preservation of the Sabbath and Christian education and Bible study in the schools was presented as the fundamental principles of the association by Dr. M. M. Pearce, president of Geneva College before members last night following a dinner in McCann's.

Blaming the three Pittsburgh newspapers for "trying to break down in youth the sacred character of Sabbath observance," the Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, president of the association attributed "the American Sabbath" to the Pilgrim fathers.

MANUAL FOR PASTORS

Dr. Martin told of a manual to be distributed to those pastors who "would not let us in their pulpits," He said:

"Maybe they are afraid we'll get some money or are not good speakers. This manual will give the facts about the Sabbath and the ministers can present them tehmselves."

The plans for a new national prohibition newspaper were explained by Wyrliffe McCracken, who said Frank Gannett, who conducts a chain of newspapers, would back it, and Stanley High would be editor.

A paper read by Mrs. Ella George telling the history of national prayer day was read.

DIRECTORS NAMED

The following directors were re-elected for three-year terms: S. K. Cunningham, the Rev. R. H. Hutchison, the Rev. A. R. Robinson and J. H. Redpath, all of Pittsburgh; F. H. Davis, of Wilkinsburg; former Congressman J. W. Vickerman, of Bellevue, and the Rev. Dr. J. S. Martin, of Beaver Falls.

Speakers included the Rev. Dr. Hugh Leith, vice president; Miss Maude M. Aldrich, of Washington, vice president of the Motion Picture Council of America; the Rev. Dr. M. M. Pearce, president of Geneva College; the Rev. Dr. R. P. Galbreath, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Bellevue; Mrs. A. H. Bowman, chairman of the committee on international co-operation to prevent war; Mrs. S. K. Cunningham, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, and Dr. Hutchison.

The voting was done by three of the four wives he is alleged to have had.

RAMBLING IN RADIOLAND :-: 'Kitchen Door' Wins Sponsor

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor

BEHIND THE KITCHEN Door goes commercial Monday, December 7 . . . five nights a week at 7:30 over WWSW . . . a baking company puts up the dough . . . Ab Ayre, of the Oliver Building, broke into Walter Winchell's radio column last night . . . Abe refers to our leading jazz maestro as Paul Wide-man . . . Billy Joy left for Detroit last night . . . when he returns to WJAS on Tuesday, December 22 he is to have a 10-piece band . . . Several of Don Bestor's men have been in town lately looking over the old stamping ground . . . Don opens here on Monday, December 21 . . . What do you think of KDKA's sustaining orchestra? . . . Twelve musicians remain in the studio subject to call at any hour of the day and when not on the air rehearse special programs . . .

Darrell V. Martin

Question a Day:

What's all this talk about the government taking over radio stations in time of war? Did our government do this in 1918?—James J. McDonald, Pa.

Answer—Control of wireless and cable passed into the hands of our Navy during the World War. Should war again descend upon the United States, all employes of broadcasting stations either would be inducted into the military or be closely supervised by officers of the Signal Corps.

* * *

Frank Crumit, at a party staged by Rudy Vallee, got up to sing his own song, "The Gay Caballero," but forgot the chorus and had to be prompted by his wife, Julia Sanderson . . .

Studio Lights

Cab Calloway has landed a permanent contract with the sponsors of the cigaret dance hour . . . his first big commercial . . . Cab plays on WJZ, WGAR, WBAL at 6:30 tonight . . .

May Singhi Breen got her first ukulele as a Christmas present, tried to exchange it for an harmonica, and when the store refused, took it home to become one of the country's "uke" experts . . .

Hugo Mariani's Orchestra is to replace Vincent Lopez on the Women's Radio Review starting next Monday afternoon . . .

When Olive Palmer, Paul Oliver and The Revellers join the unemployed on December 11, Nathaniel Skilkret's Orchestra is to take their place . . . .

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra are to leave NBC in Chicago after the first of the year to start a vaudeville tour to last until June, with a contract said to call for $7,000 a week and expenses. Pittsburgh is tentatively on the itinerary . . .

Maj. Bowes has grabbed a life saver for his Capitol Family, which had intended leaving the air . . . the new time is Sunday morning at 11:30 . . .

An Oakmont listener suggests that the Tech-Duquesne game be put on all five stations and listeners be asked to contribute some small sum such as 10 cents or a quarter each . . . this was tried in a benefit game last year and resulted in a healthy response . . . splendid suggestion . . .

KQV joins WLW for an hour's broadcast tonight at 11:30 of the annual Ohio State Day program direct from the campus in Columbus . . . Wesley Fessler, former all-America end, is to speak . . . six microphones have been placed on the campus . . .

R. V. S.—The individual stations and the networks pay the cost of the unemployment programs . . . time for speeches by President Hoover is also contributed gratis . . . artists on the unemployment programs are not paid . . .

Sisters of the Skillet get all kinds of problems in the mail but they are puzzled how to answer this one, which asked why, as their signature, they sing: "Keep on a Small Island." The boys insist it sounds to them like "Keep on a Sm-i-ling."

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The Broadway gates . . . Gilt studio . . . Metropolitan Opera season will be more than one-half over before . . . announcers who have had experience in acting big news events are . . . broadcast barons move in with . . . at last getting a chance in the . . . their stiffest shirts, their highest . . . arena. And it's about time . . . nails and sleekest voices . . .

So many mechanical problems, you know, so many electrical experiments, so many building and fire laws to observe before Pagliacci can laugh into the microphones . . . It is the Saturday afternoon programs at the Met which are in most cases to be aired, for the choicest evening hours of the broadcaster have been sold, and the opera house does not intend to enrich the radio coffers . . . It will be interesting to watch the reaction at the box office of the radio publicity. For years, you'll recall, the Met resisted every cannonading of the broadcasting gunners . . .

One network has the major symphony organizations, the other the leading opera companies . . . And so it goes, the generalissimos of each company watching one another like hawks. Gendarmes watching the door-tapping at the spearsavers of America are no more alert than these rival camps of broadcasters. There hasn't been any competition like it in the amusement world since the Shubert's left Syracuse to storm the . . . Wouldn't surprise us if John Young, George Hicks and Ford Bond will cut in heavily upon the McNamee domain before another year is over. . . . The rise of the Goldbergs, celebrating two years on the air, is still the only short radio sketch that has a professional tang about it. Its savor of New York's Ghetto is as authentic as a page from Fannie Hurst . . .

Germany Prepares For Food Dictator

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Appointment of a food dictator for Germany was forecast in government circles today.

No definite date has been set for the appointment, but it was said the official would probably come from the ministry of economics and be empowered automatically to reduce wages and costs of industrial and food products.

Girl Loses Fingers When Rifle Explodes

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 2.—Miss Ruth Noll, 19, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Noll, of Fairchance, lost two fingers on her left hand when a high powered rifle exploded as she carried it to an automobile in which her brother, Herman, and Charles Seaton, of Uniontown, had been hunting.

HOME PARLEY OPENS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Three thousand delegates from all sections of the country representing every phase of home building and financing assembled here today for the opening of President Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership.

The Chief Executive will staff them on their deliberations tonight with an address outlining his ideas concerning steps which should be taken to make ownership of a home more easily available to every citizen.

Sixty Pittsburghers representing business and real estate interests were among the delegates to President Hoover's conference, including William E. Best, president of the United States Building and Loan League, who is a member of the conference's finance committee.

British King, Astor To Sell Race Horses

BAYLES DENIED SPEED MARK

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Denied a new world's land plane speed record through a re-check of the time he made in a third attempt yesterday and the failure of one of the timers to get a photographic record of the finish, Lowell R. Bayles, Springfield, Mass., aviator, plans to make a fourth attempt and hopes to reach 300 miles an hour.

Official timers who credited Bayles with an average speed of 284.72 miles an hour immediately after his flight yesterday, corrected the figures today and disclosed that the actual average was 281.9 miles an hour. To claim a new record Bayles had to better by 4.97 miles an hour the old record of 278.4 made in 1924 by Warrant Officer Bonnet of France.

Even had he attained the necessary margin it is unlikely the record would have been allowed because of the failure of the cameras to catch the plane passing the pylon on the last dash over the course.

$500.00 in Gold for Five Words!

A Slogan Contest open to the Residents of Pittsburgh and Vicinity

Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis, Mo., want a slogan of five words that will express the superlative quality of Budweiser Malt.

Here Are the Simple Rules!

You are not required to buy anything. Just write a five-word slogan. As an example of the type of slogan wanted, here are two we have been using in the past, "The Best Money Can Buy" and "Seventy-five Years of Confidence." The only requirements are that you write your slogan and your name and address plainly on a piece of paper the same size as the label on a Budweiser Malt can. You may send in more than one. In the event of a tie, duplicate prizes will be given. Mail your suggestions to SLOGAN CONTEST JUDGES, ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC., ST. LOUIS, MO.

For Your Information!

Aside from the 75 years of quality leadership enjoyed by Anheuser-Busch, their products come from the largest and finest plant of its kind in the world. This plant comprises 110 individual buildings covering 142 acres—the equivalent of 70 city blocks. Into this plant go the very finest raw materials that can be bought. Out of it come products such as BUDWEISER, "The Nation's Favorite Brew;" BUSCH EXTRA DRY, "America's Finest Ginger Ale" and BUDWEISER MALT, "The Best Money Can Buy"—products which excel in purity, quality and goodness.

Plenty of Cash Prizes!

Twenty-three cash prizes will be awarded as follows:

1st prize . $200.00
2nd prize . 100.00
3rd prize . . 50.00
4th prize . . 25.00
5th prize . . 25.00
6th prize . . 10.00
7th prize . . 10.00

—and 16 Prizes of $5.00 Each

Bear in mind that these cash prizes are solely for the residents of this city and vicinity. They are not offered in a national or statewide contest that would minimize your chance of winning.

Similar slogan contests are running in other cities, and each city has been allotted its separate quota of cash prizes, totaling thousands of dollars. Therefore, everyone's chances of winning one of these prizes are thus greatly magnified.

Contest Closes
January 2, 1932

Answers mailed after 12 p. m., January 2nd, 1932, will not be considered. Winners will be announced in this newspaper. No contributions will be returned.

Remember!

Twenty-three cash prizes will go to residents of your city. You will win the first prize of $200.00 if your suggestion is considered the best by the judges, and in the event that it does not, don't forget that there are 22 other cash prizes to be awarded and this money will come in mighty handy to the winners after the holidays.

Act Now!

Anheuser-Busch have made the duration of this contest short, because they want quick action for a slogan to use in future advertising, so, get busy and send in your suggestions. Do it today—and win one of the cash prizes.

MOTHER FIGHTS FOR SON

This will be a lean Christmas for George Thomas O'Leary, 3, unless his mother, who has not worked since September, can find employment. Because her husband left her five months before George was born, Mrs. Louise O'Leary, 23, has been able to keep her baby with her only eight months in all since he was born.

When he was 2 years old she was able to take him from the home where he had been staying and board him with a private family while she worked. A week ago, a friend called to see her. Her meager belongings were packed in boxes. Her landlord was putting her out because she could not pay her rent. Her friend said:

"Where are you going?"

She answered:

"To the river, I guess."

The friend took her and George home. Mrs. O'Leary searches every day for work. She said:

"I'd fight the whole Army and Navy to keep my little boy with me."

ROBBER SLUGS HILL TAILOR

Sam Skegen, 35, was slugged with a revolver butt last night when he grappled with one of two Negroes in an attempted holdup of his tailor shop, 1528 Wylie avenue. The thieves escaped without loot.

According to police, Skegen seized one of the men when he was ordered to hold up his hands. The bandit's companion struck the tailor with the gun. Skegen cried out, and the Negroes fled. A physician treated Skegen for a laceration of the eye.

Her purse, containing $15, a ring and a watch were taken from Mrs. J. Remlinger, 198 Ormsby avenue, while she was shopping in a Downtown 5 and 10-cent store, she told detectives.

Mrs. L. Hughes, of 2811 Glenmore avenue, Dormont, was robbed of her purse containing $100 and papers while she was shopping in a Downtown department store, according to police.

G. O. P. Chairmanship: Mackrell or Topley

By MARK SHIELDS

BEHIND the political scenes a game is being played for the chairmanship of the Republican party of Allegheny County, made vacant by the death of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong. The leading contestants for the place are two close friends, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley.

Neither is showing any personal exertion for the post, but friends of each are busy, and the part to be played by the newly-risen Independents, led by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and Commissioner-elect C. M. Barr, is being carefully considered. An old-line organization man would be a mere figurehead as county chairman, as he would be completely cut off from the patronage flow. The job will be tough enough for a man friendly to all groups.

* * *

ON BEHALF of Mackrell, it is urged that his recent record is such as to appeal to Independents. In the primary he was for Senator William D. Mansfield and Armstrong for the Republican nominations for Commissioner, but for Mansfield first.

In the general election, when Mansfield engaged in a bi-partisan alliance with the Democratic candidate, David Lawrence, Mackrell supported Barr, the Independent, at the same time speaking for Mansfield, the Republican nominee.

This "bolting" of McGovern was with McGovern's acquiesence, the Commissioner figuring that he would surely be elected, and welcoming any help for Barr, whom he supported rather than Mansfield.

Together with these recent experiences, Mackrell has a long regular record. It is known that he would accept the chairmanship, but only if he secured something approximating united party support, with a virtual mandate to reorganize political affairs.

* * *

UNQUESTIONABLY this would bring about a clash with the faction headed by Senator James J. Coyne, as he and Mackrell have been far apart for many political seasons. A real effort to elect Mackrell also would disclose how serious the breach is between Coyne and Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Kline is personally friendly to Mackrell, but it remains to be seen whether he would swing support to him, knowing how it would displease Coyne. If the Mayor was not facing trial on malfeasance charges his course might be easier to diagnose. Right now, however, the Mayor is giving thought to little else but his coming court battle and hesitates to antagonize any group.

It is improbable any decision will be reached pending the return of McGovern from Bermuda, his power as the prospective chairman of the County Board entitling him to be present at a meeting of the county committee, when a new chairman will be chosen.

* * *

THE ACTION of County Commissioner E. V. Babcock, chairman-for-a-month of the County Board, in discharging 168 workers in the county Department of Public Works without notice has caused a stir in political circles. The total saving is estimated at $50,000 between now and the end of the year.

Babcock's move, taken in the absence of McGovern, is viewed as the chairman's expression of dislike for Norman F. Brown, former director, upon the first occasion Babcock was able to exercise his authority. Under Chairman Armstrong, Brown had an agreement whereby he was not to be interfered with in the employment of technical men. Friends of Brown say this was irksome to Babcock, but that he was powerless to interfere because Armstrong upheld Brown.

It is also pointed out that the dismissal of these workers occurred in the same month Babcock, as chairman, becomes entitled to salary at the rate of $15,000 annually, rather than the $12,000, which is the pay of an ordinary commissioner.

Babcock's explanation is that these positions were no longer necessary to the county's work, and that it was only fair to the taxpayers to save the money. Making men jobless on the eve of Christmas is unpleasant, he admits, but their salaries are paid by citizens who in many instances have not enjoyed the advantages of the public employes now removed.

* * *

THE FEUD between Babcock and Brown is an oddity of public life, an example of change in the relations of office holders. They once were the best of friends and Babcock was responsible for Brown's first notable public employment.

It is reported that when the late Addison Gumbert died R. B. Mellon asked Brown to seek appointment to the vacancy on the county board. Brown, recognizing that with Armstrong as chairman the board was a one-man affair, declined, but advanced the name of his friend, Babcock. The latter was selected by the judges of Common Pleas Court.

Shortly thereafter friction developed and Brown resigned to Armstrong at least twice, once before the last people's bond issue, but the late chairman of the board persuaded him to stay until November 15 of this year. The proposal to purchase the Wabash Bridge and tunnel, a Babcock idea, brought the two closer together.

Armstrong was won over by Babcock, and in loyalty to the chairman, Brown interposed no public objection, but it is reported he has privately taken issue with estimated costs and the feasibility of the project.

7 Fatalities Mark Opening of Big Game Season

LEADERS SEE NEW HOPE FOR WELFARE GOAL

HUNTERS BUSY IN SEWICKLEY DISTRICT

18 Deer Killed in County, 375 in Westmoreland; Doe Perils State Official

Tragedy mingled with humor and good sportsmanship as Pennsylvania's big game season opened to more than a half-million hunters yesterday. One of the biggest kills on record was credited to hunters in Western Pennsylvania hills, 18 bucks and does being claimed in Allegheny County. In Westmoreland County 375 were killed, 300 in Venango County, 350 in Cambria County and 300 in Cameron County.

The casualties of the day included four hunters dead from gunshot wounds, three others dead from heart attacks and one killed in an auto crash. A check-up also revealed many hunters had been wounded in accidents. The record for Allegheny County was good, State Game Protector Ralph A. Liphart said, there being no accidents reported and only one arrest made.

Of the 18 deer killed in the county, eight were shot in the Sewickley Valley section.

OFFICIAL IMPERILED

Liphart spent most of the day in Sewickley Township and there had a dangerous encounter with a doe. Down on his knees to permit a clear vision for other persons near by as a deer was seen running toward the party, Liphart narrowly escaped injury as a large doe leaped over him and sped away.

Liphart was in the woods with a party including Mr. and Mrs. John O. Burgwin, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Quigg, Mrs. Rogers McMahon, B. F. Jones and William Clarkson, all from the Sewickley Hunt.

Angelo Antonnicio, of Somerset, got an 180-pound buck with a bow and arrow.

In the Oil City district Victor Baney, of Petroleum Center, today was starting a jail sentence of 106 days because he was found with illegal deer in his possession. Baney, jobless and hungry, picked up a portion of a deer which had been killed by a train near West Hickory 12 hours before the deer season opened.

Baney is said to have come upon the mutilated deer, discarded by a game officer. Baney pleaded guilty and was fined with the alternative of a 106-day jail sentence. He was unable to pay the fine.

The only arrest in Allegheny County was that of Frank Bauer, of 626 National road, Wheeling, fined $40 and costs by Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley.

DEAD AND INJURED

Paul F. Karl, 40, of Altoona, killed when his gun accidentally went off as he climbed a fence near Spruce Creek.

Wayne Smartwood, Brockport, Elk County, shot near Weedville, died in DuBois Hospital.

Adam Yuhra, 20, of West Hazleton; his gun was discharged while he was climbing a tree.

George W. Manreck, 50, was killed when an automobile filled with hunters was wrecked near Lebanon, Pa.

George W. Sour, 72, of Jersey Shore, also fatally stricken by a heart ailment.

G. A. Wallace, 60, of Greensburg, found dead in his automobile on top of Ligonier Mountain, believed a victim of heart attack after dragging a deer up the long road to his automobile.

Homestead Minister Bags 170-Lb. Deer

The Rev. James H. Douds, pastor of the Homestead United Presbyterian Church, was displaying a 170-pound buck at his home, 211 West Tenth avenue, today, trophy of his hunt in Elk County yesterday. The minister and two nephews, C. T. and Leo Peterson, of Linesville, Pa., brought down two deer.

PRIVATE AUDIT BY POOR BOARD ASSAILED

Members Lax Unless Survey Is Made by Controller, Attorney Wicks Charges

An attack is to be made on the validity of the private audit by the members of the Poor Board of Allegheny County, it was indicated today by Attorney Elverton H. Wicks, one of the members of the visiting committee named by Judge James H. Gray.

A taxpayers' bill in equity has been filed against members of the board, J. Clyde Miller, H. H. Dixon and Dr. W. L. Henderson, involving $743,000. Asked concerning the validity of the audit made by the board, Attorney Wicks said:

"It is the duty of the County Controller to pass on the legality of expenditures. If members of the Poor Board fail to see this is done, they are lax in their duty.

"A private audit had been made each year, and such audit is not binding on the taxpayers. The only audit that can be binding is the one required by law."

"It is the duty of the Poor Board to see the books, accounts and records of the Allegheny County Home are audited and settled annually by the Controller of Allegheny County. Their failure to do so leaves their accounts and records unsettled and subjects them to account to the taxpayers, as to the legality of their various official activities and expenditures."

It is expected the equity action will be heard within the next three or four months.

PAIR CAPTURED IN CHASE HELD AS BANDITS

Magistrate Drives Pursuit Car as Woman Treasurer Is Beaten and Robbed

Police Magistrate Ray Schneider turned pursuit car driver early today to aid in the capture of two alleged holdup men after a long chase through North Side streets.

The pair—Hilroy Heil, 24, of 2242 Greshom street, and John Ritter, 25, of 2144 Straub's lane—was arraigned before Schneider in North Side Police Court later in the day and held for further investigation.

They are accused of robbing Mrs. Marie Kufner, of 1731 East street, of $122 belonging to the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Society, of which she is treasurer, and $8 of her own money as she left St. Boniface Roman Catholic Church, East street.

ROBBED NEAR CHURCH

According to Mrs. Kufner, she had just left the church when Ritter leaped and struck her, grasped the brief case in which she was carrying the money and fled up the steps from East street to Howard street.

Just then Magistrate Schneider, driving toward town, came along. He and Krause started in pursuit.

CRASH ENDS CHASE

In and out of North Side streets, the chase led until, at Foreland and East streets, the car they were chasing collided with one driven by Joseph A. Henzler, of 3939 Foreland street.

Krause arrested Ritter and Heil

Suicide

J. H. LYNN, 62

CHARGE THREE ADMIT HOLDUPS

City detectives today continued to build a case around a trio of suspects who, they reported, confessed last night to more than a score of chain store and gasoline station holdups.

They were taken late Saturday night by detectives and Emsworth police, acting on information that an Emsworth chain store was to be robbed. In an automobile near the store Leo Wible, 26, of 915 Sandusky street, and Lester J. Altmeyer, 27, of 1718 Monterey street, were arrested.

The prisoners, detectives say, implicated Altmeyer's brother, Henry J. Altmeyer, 31, of 1205 Resaca place. After a grilling, detectives say, the suspects confessed to 23 holdups.

According to detectives, the youths began the banditry on Labor Day. Included in the alleged confession, detectives say, was the holdup of the Acme Beef Company, Termon avenue, where the proprietor, after being robbed, was tied to a meat block.

Peoples State Bank Report Confirmed

The first and partial account of Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon for the Peoples State Bank of East Pittsburgh, providing for a 50 per cent dividend to depositors, was confirmed in Common Pleas Court on motion of Attorney David Glick, who said depositors would probably be paid another 40 or 45 per cent dividend later. The initial dividend will total about $90,000.

STORE PLEDGES PART OF DAY'S SALES

Increased Gifts By Wealthy Urged as Workers Strive To Collect $1,900,000

A list of Welfare Fund contributors appears on page 13.

Leaders in the joint campaign of the Allegheny County Emergency Association and the Welfare Fund to raise nearly $6,000,000 for unemployment relief today expressed hope of success following developments yesterday. More than $1,900,000 remains to be raised. Additional reports will be made tomorrow.

Yesterday's action by the Joseph Horne Company in announcing that 10 per cent of today's sales will be donated to the fund came as a surprise to campaign leaders. To date, $37,280 has been contributed by directors and employes of the company, officials said.

HOPE FOR INCREASES

Leaders expressed hope that contributions from a small group of large corporations and individuals who have already subscribed to the fund may be increased.

The downtown area is being re-canvassed and a small group of individuals are being listed for re-solicitation in an increased effort to raise the quota.

The emergency appeal letter sent out last week netted $17,000 in increased or new subscriptions, fund officials said.

EMPLOYE PLEDGES

New subscriptions reported by the employe division were as follows: A. E. Masten & Co., $900; McCann's Store, $2,002.05; George H. Alexander Company, $265; Kaufmann's Store, $14,384; Arnold School (teachers and students), $334.50; Carl W. Heimann, $400; county employes, $37,000; city employes, $56,873.59.

The total, to date, reported by the division is $553,000. The final total is estimated at $800,000, by William E. Quinby, chairman.

The final report meeting will be held Monday noon in William Penn Hotel.

Judge Fines Song Publisher Over Tunes He Dislikes

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson yesterday in open court expressed his opinion of some of the popular music of the present day.

It occurred when Milton D. Myer, of Fourth avenue, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with infringement of copyrighted lyrics by publishing them on "songsheets," which were sold on the streets. The Judge said:

"I will have to pass sentence on you, but the wrong man is in front of me. I would like to sentence the persons who write some of those songs which I often have to listen to over the radio."

The court then imposed a fine of $100 and costs on the defendant. Among the songs named in the indictment were "Baby's Birthday Party," "Betty Co-Ed" and "Three Little Words."

COUNCIL VOTES FOR CITY-COUNTY BUILDING MANAGER

GREAT SAVING SEEN POSSIBLE IN PLAN

Accountant Estimate Cut As Economic Pruning On Budget Is Taken Up

A manager for the City-County Building, heretofore under joint supervision of the city and county, was recommended as an economy move by Council in budget session today.

A motion by Councilman W. Y. English was adopted providing for a manager, the details to be worked out later in conference with the County Commissioners.

The county and city have appropriated about $256,000 each toward maintenance of the building. Councilmen today were of the opinion this sum could be substantially cut.

Councilman Robert Garland proposed that the Building Owners and Managers Association appoint a manager, stating he believed $100,000 could be saved yearly under such an arrangement. The motion failed.

The consideration of the revenue side of the ledger is the first step in the fixing of the tax rate. Sessions of the Budget Committee yesterday were largely taken up in general discussions. A few minor cuts were made, including approximately $10,000 in the appropriation for stamps and about $7,000 in athletic equipment in the Bureau of Recreation.

Among the positions for which no salary has been set up in the budget is that of chief accountant in the Bureau of Costs in the Mayor's office. This position has been held by Frank T. Hauprat, Alderman in the Ninth Ward.

The Department of City Planning added a tree surgeon last spring who is being retained in 1932 in the shade tree division. A number of special surveys have been cut out to reduce the setup for the department.

Penn Avenue Slaying Suspect Dodges Net

Homicide detectives today are seeking Otto Pierson, 30, a Negro, in connection with the fatal shooting yesterday of Tilman Scott, Negro, in his home, 1732 Penn avenue. The shooting, which police say grew out of an argument, was witnessed by two Negro children, Inez, 4, and her 2-year-old brother. Scott died before his arrival at a hospital.

VOLPE DISTRICT RUM SUSPECTS TO FACE COURT

4 Held by U. S. Commissioner On Wilmerding Charges; Search for Others Pushed

Four alleged members of a Wilmerding bootleg gang were held for Federal Court trial, charged with selling liquor, by a United States Commissioner following a hearing today.

Twenty one federal officers and state police arrested the four in a raid late yesterday in the home district of John Volpe, Republican boss of Wilmerding, and reported seizing liquor and corn sugar. The raiders said they had no evidence that the Volpes were connected with any of the places.

TESTIFY TO "BUYS"

Those held are Alfred Corleto, Patton and Middle street; William Wallace, same address; Peter Filia, State street and Howard avenue, and Thomas C. Dillard, Negro, Cedar way.

A government agent testified to buying liquor from all four at various times. The defendants denied the charge. Corleto said he was a gassed veteran of the Italian Army and was ill at home when the alleged liquor purchase was made.

The four, none of whom had counsel, were held in $1,500 bond each.

OTHERS SOUGHT

Agents refused to comment at length on either the raids or the arrests, but they indicated that they had warrants for other persons they were unable to find yesterday. Concerted efforts were to be made today to apprehend others brought under suspicion during the special agents' investigation which lasted several months.

Evidence that suspected persons had been "tipped" of the raids was found, agents said, in the discovery that many of the places visited contained no liquor, ice cream and pop were abundant, it was declared.

The raiding party was made up of 13 state troopers, five special agents and three prohibition agents, among them Deputy Prohibition Administrator Robert S. Krause.

Mexico to Disarm 10,000 Communists

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—A tense situation prevailed today in the state of Vera Cruz as Gen. Eulogio Ortiz, chief of federal military operations in that state, launched a campaign to disarm 10,000 agrarian adherents of Gov. Adalberto J. Tejada, reported ready to set up a communistic regime.

They are MILDER

The mildest cigarette is bound to be the one that's made of the mildest tobaccos. It's harder to find the milder varieties—but we pay the price and get the choice. The world's finest Turkish—the world's finest Domestic—the purest, mildest and best tobacco that grows—that's what we buy for Chesterfield.

We tie up millions of dollars ageing these tobaccos right. Then we blend and cross-blend them for extra mildness and taste. Good—they've got to be good!

Everything that money, science and skill can do to make a milder cigarette shows up with every puff. A cigarette can't be made any milder or purer—you can smoke as many as you like. And you'll like as many as you smoke. Chesterfields TASTE BETTER and THEY SATISFY!

PUBLIC STAND RENT STUDIED

The $500 annual rental on the cigar stand on the first floor of the City-County Building has been made an object for a discussion between city and county authorities, following a recommendation to Council by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board that bids be taken on the rental.

Council instructed Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, to take up the question of bids on the stand with County Commissioners. The rental is divided between city and county. Although an opinion on the rental which has been in force was not expressed to Council, real estate dealers said similar stands in other buildings are paying four times as much.

The lease on the stand expired recently. It has been rented by L. K. Black.

MRS. MARIE KUFNER DESK SERGEANT LIEUT. HARRY E. MOORE MAGISTRATE RAY SCHNEIDER

Magistrate's Schneider's hearing today in North Side Police Court for Suspects Heil and Ritter, captured by Patrolman Krause after he had fired 10 shots from a speeding car driven by the Magistrate and commandeered by coincidence. Patrolman Krause took up the chase after two bandits had knocked down, robbed Mrs. Kufner, a society's treasurer, 1731 East street, of $132.

Mrs. Kufner, identifying her money, said that Heil was the son of one of the society's members and apparently had deducted from her conversation that last night was "dues night" of the society.

DRUG STORE ROBBED

Three armed men entered the restaurant of Peter Jonoles on the first floor of a building at Hazel and Logan streets. While one of them kept him covered with a gun, the others kicked in a door leading to the drug store of Saul Baber facing Logan street and ransacked the place.

Police said they got two cases of whisky, valued at $225; eight ounces of morphine and eight ounces of codine, valued at $150; merchandise valued at $150, and $3.40 in cash.

A short time later three men with guns believed to be the same ones that robbed the drug store held up James Hitt, waiter in the Dorff restaurant at 125 Denniston avenue, and obtained $10. They escaped in an automobile.

PEDESTRIAN ROBBED

Dave Titlebaum, of 8 Granville street, reported to police that three Negroes held him up near his home and robbed him of his watch and a small amount of money.

Mrs. Ethel Frohlick, 25, of 170 Robinson street, screamed and frightened away a man who leaped at her from a passing truck near her home last night. The truck had stopped at the curb near Mrs. Frohlick's home. A man alighted, and seized her by the arm. She struggled and screamed until her assailant fled.

COURT TO RULE BASSETT FUNDS

Creditors will not be able to attach the estate of Ira S. Bassett, businessman-recluse, according to Howard D. Montgomery, counsel for the widow, because distribution must be made through Orphans' Court.

The creditors, it is claimed, may hunt for the assets but cannot touch them even though Bassett was never discharged from bankruptcy.

How searchers will proceed depends somewhat on whether F. W. Burger of the Register of Wills office consents or refuses to probate the will. Bassett canceled by letter.

The will was dated March 12, 1928. The letter, Bassett wrote, placed in an envelope to be opened at his death, was dated Jackson, O., March 14, 1928, at 11:29 a. m. Bassett on that day was holding a special meeting in the Ohio town.

No Depression for La Dorsay As Stage and Screen Jobs Await Her

BY HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2.

Lupe is dormant for the moment, but Fifi's "Allo Beeg Boy!" resounds along the boulevards and in the swellest gathering places. For Fifi, there is no depression.

"This is my biggest year," she says enthusiastically. "I have made three pictures and I went out for five weeks of vaudeville and stayed five months. If I want to go back after the holidays, there are bookings waiting for me."

Chaplin Busy As Writer

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Charles Chaplin has been writing a play about Napoleon, based upon a French novel, but has run into difficulties with the novelist and may have to abandon the project, it was learned.

"I had hoped to produce the play in London and New York and then make a motion picture of it," Chaplin said, "but a hitch has arisen, and so I probably will be returning to Hollywood shortly."

Chaplin revealed that the play showed Napoleon escaping from St. Helena, his place being taken there by a double. Napoleon then, slapped when he laughs at the returns to Paris, and has his face, news that the emperor is dead.

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

This impressive army of Ford cars is only part of the total purchase by the City of Detroit

City of Detroit buys 137 new FORD cars

Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time. Twenty-one radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 78,434 miles to 143,723 miles, with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2.284 cents a mile — less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile. Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive, convincing proof of Ford economy.

In the column at the left, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such grueling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs. The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford.

Even Mailman Pursues Casting Director

The life of a casting director is a harried one. Phil Freedman who does the hiring for Universal recently moved out of a hotel because out-of-work actors were calling him day and night.

Ensconsed in a snug bungalow he and his wife were congratulating themselves on the peace they were to enjoy.

Pity the 'Poor' Film Stars

By WALLACE X. RAWLES
International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3.—Talk of salary cuts in Hollywood revived interest today in what kind of "wages" are paid the kings and queens of movieland.

Salaries are largely a matter of conjecture. But Hollywood apprises pretty accurately what each star receives and details of each new contract leak out promptly.

Tom Mix, at the apex of his career in silent pictures, made made $10,000 a week, and Pola Negri made $8,000.

Jack Gilbert today received $1,000,000 on a four-picture contract. Ruth Chatterton makes $500,000 a year. Constance Bennett makes $7,500 a week and established an "all time high" last summer when a company paid her $30,000 a week for 10 weeks.

THEY STRUGGLE ALONG!

When he works, Will Rogers gets $25,000 a week. George Arliss struggles along on $10,000 weekly. William Powell between $7,500 and $9,000, and Maurice Chevalier, $5,000.

Norma Shearer earns $6,000 a week, it is said, while Lowell Sherman and Richard Dix made up to $5,500. Also in the $5,000 class are Greta Garbo, Wallace Beery, Ronald Colman, Barbara Stanwyck, Ramon Novarro, Billie Dove, Robert Armstrong and Buster Keaton.

Edmund Lowe was making $3,500 a week when he left for Europe. Similar amounts are made by Warner Baxter, Nancy Carroll, Mary Astor, Laura La Plante and Edward Everett Horton.

ONLY $3,000 WEEKLY!

Stars in the $2,000 to $3,000 a week class are numerous, including Kay Francis, Reginald Denny, Janet Gaynor, Lupe Velez, Lew Cody, Charles Farrell, Gary Cooper, Victor McLeglen, Richard Arlen, Charles "Buddy" Rogers, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Claudette Colbert, Olive Brook, Noah Beery and Joe E. Brown.

Lilyan Tashman, Dorothy Lee, Frederic March, Paul Lukas and Bill Boyd draw from $1,200 to $1,500 a week.

Harold Lloyd is moviedom's richest actor. He reputedly is worth $12,000,000. Mary Pickford has saved $5,000,000, while the Mix, Barrymore and Talmadge fortunes are estimated at from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Lawrence Tibbett Sings In Mosque Monday

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off fat a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach, with never a hungry moment. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on fats, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

Flashes From Fairyland

1. Little Red Riding Hood.

A filly, tagged Red Riding Hood, was ankling through the wood;
She had a mess of vittles for her granny—
So Red was playing Little Orphan Annie.

A wolf, who muscled in, had put the granny on the spot
And gone to bed, quite full and feeling drowsy;
But Red (and they shell peas!) was slow in doping what was what,
And cooed, "What's wrong, old girl? You're looking lousy."

"What teeth you have!" she chirped, and settled down beside the bed.
"Come closer, kid," he growled. "Know who I am now?
Heheh. Some fun!" he gagged, and made a nifty pass at Red.

How to Get Gray Young

"Dear Mr. Winchell," writes J. Edward Milstein, one of the Italian (we presume) relief managers for Warner Bros. at the Sanford Theater, Irvington, N. J., "I saw that newsreel and got a laugh, but Mr. Grandi did not say: 'Col. Limberger,' he said Lindbergha.' Many of the Italian race cannot speak the English language very well, usually add a broad 'a' at the end for words. Considering that Mr. Grandi called Lindy the finest example of American youth, you owe him an apology."

Heheheh

That Elinson Person argues that there's a bright side to these bad times. Most of us, he observes, haven't been troubled with breaking in new shoes.

Proof!

If you don't believe times are pediculous ask Sid Parry, who points out that flagpole sitters are now curbstone sitters.

Haw!

R. D. Pope, of Winter Haven, Fla., writes to learn if what he heard is a fact. Mr. Pope says that down there the natives are saying that in New York parks the signs "Keep Off the Grass!" have been changed to read: "Please Don't Eat the Grass!"

Same Here

And one of the loyalists whose initials are W. E. C. wishes that Hoover would make good his promises so that all those magazine editors could go back to their truck-driving.

Oop!

Pete Woodhull, the prominent movie exhibitor, was addressing a convention of cinema theater owners. Mr. Woodhull was asked what he thought of the theater that plays two features on a single program.

"Oh," he replied, "just twice as much bad entertainment."

Within the Law

A. B. Comathiere, star of "Porgy," told this one during a lull in the rehearsals of "The Second Coming" at the Provincetown.

In Italy, mashers are fined 50 lire or something, for flirting. But this doesn't stop amorous sheiks from passing a pretty signorina and saying in a stage whisper:

"Ah, if I only had 50 lire!"

Of All Things

Mrs. A. P. Culver, late of No. 131 E. 66th St., N. Y. C., has a sensayuma. That's why she forwarded to us a copy of the bill she received from a carpenter. In having her piano moved out of her furnished apartment, one of the heavy rollers broke through a tiny board in the parquet floor. Mrs. Culver left instructions to have it fixed and to send her the bill.

This is what she received:

"For patching floor—2½ hrs., carpenter, $1.62½ an hour—one hour Supt. at $1.75—strip oak flooring, .45—1 lb. nails, .08—carfare, .10—Workmen's Compensation and Public Liability Insurance, .29—10% overhead, .69—10% profit, .76—total, $8.32."

What! No lunch expenses?

The Way How!

One of David Murray's pals was amazed.

"You mean to say," he gasped, "that you actually got back stage? Howja ever get by the doorman?"

"Oh," indifferently replied Murray, "I talked so loud that he thought I was the star."

News Item

Walter O'Keefe, the actor, reports that the Republican National Committee will use the radio to spread propaganda during the next campaign.

Following Bing Crosby, Mr. Hoover will go on as "The Crooning Politician." His theme song will be: "Just One More Chance."

And then some careless person will forget and put on Morton Downey, who will sing: "Good Night, Sweetheart!"

Merciless Truth

Ted Evans, an editor in Columbus, O., hadn't seen Jimmy Jappe since Jimmy had an operation last summer. They met on the street the other day and Evans remarked how well Jimmy looked.

"You look swell Jimmy, exclaimed Evans, "how do you feel?"

Novelette

It happened in the W. 47th Street Police Station, atop which a brand new flag now tops with the winds. A drunkee was brought in the other night on a charge of vagrancy. (as who shouldn't be?).

As they jotted down his pedigree, the captain, who would give anything to have us brought in there for a moment (so we could get 10 years!), flung his coat over the railing. He flung it with an angry gesture, being sulky.

Well, sir, to make a short story very comical, the stew's case was held for Day Court, and while being taken from the room he picked up the captain's coat, which had $40 in a pocket. The captain still is looking for the coat, but more so for his coin.

The following day the vagrant was freed, and with the captain's $40 went by-by without even saying ta-ta.

Moral: Never have a guy arrested for vagrancy—you never can tell when you'll lose your only $40 and be held on the same charge!

Armful!

Joan Blondell, in "Blonde Crazy," coming Saturday to the Warner screen, finds her arms occupied with something besides the hero. But you can bet that fellow's turn comes at the finale.

Discovery Makes Possible
New Plan By Makers of Vicks VapoRub for Better "Control-of-Colds"

Another advance in "Control-of-Colds" has been perfected by the makers of Vicks VapoRub. A third of a century ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern, external method of "treating" colds. Now, Vick Chemists introduce Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. These two are companion products — they aid and supplement each other. Together, they make possible the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home and further reduction of the family "Colds Tax"—in money, loss of time and health.

1.—Before a Cold Starts

At that first sneezy, scratchy irritation of the nose or upper throat — Nature's unmistakable warning that you are "catching cold"—use Vicks Nose Drops promptly as directed. Many colds can be checked at this stage and bad colds avoided.

If you catch cold easily, the wise plan is to use just a few Vicks Nose Drops up each nostril after exposure to any particular condition that your own experience tells you is apt to give you a cold—for instance, a night on a Pullman — a dusty automobile ride — over-smoking, over-heated, over-crowded rooms, etc.—and you feel the slightest stuffiness of the nasal passages. Vicks Drops are especially designed to aid the nose—Nature's "preventor" of colds—when over-taxed by such emergencies of our artificial present-day living.

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bedclothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled freely all night long. During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops as needed for ease and comfort. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub).

This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children—and lowers body strength at a time when Nature most needs it to resist disease. Don't "dose" colds except on your doctor's advice.

Trial Offer to Vick Users

The Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" has been tested — and proved. But the makers want all users of Vicks VapoRub to test it themselves in their own homes. Get a bottle of Vicks Drops from your druggist today. Try the plan as directed. If results are not more than satisfactory, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

Tanks War in Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Pictures of the biggest war tank army in the world, property of France, are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, showing in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters. These huge war engines engage in a thrilling sham battle at the Versailles Artillery School, to the accompaniment of an exciting description by the Globe Trotter. They maneuver over rough ground, smashing everything in their path and firing their big guns every few seconds. Great stone walls are crushed and the walls of a solid brick building crashes into ruins.

Mayor James Walker, of New York, in San Francisco makes his first statement to Metrotone as to his motives in traveling across the continent to take up cudgels for Tom Mooney, who has spent 15 years in San Quentin prison after having been convicted in the 1916 bomb outrage. The Mayor is also shown in a scene with Mooney's aged mother.

Hearst Metrotone News cameramen risk their lives in visiting the Colorado Rockies while the recent blizzard, the worst in 50 years, was raging. Great herds of cattle and sheep being brought down to the lowlands for the winter are caught in the storm.

Great crowds gather for the opening of the annual six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, New York. The pedal pushers electrify the fans with repeated sprints.

Giant animals of all sorts filled with helium gas parade down Broadway, New York City, to officially notify the populace that the Christmas holidays are approaching. Released, they present a spectacular picture as they soar over the towering skyscrapers.

The biggest football upset of the year, with Notre Dame going down to defeat at the hands of the Army to the tune of 12-0, is featured.

Catharine Dorset nee Catharin Calhoun of the Virginny Calhouns will be seen as a worried widow lady from Dubuque, Iowy, when "As Husbands Go" comes to the Nixon next Monday as the third Guild subscription play of the season. Writ by Rachel Crothers—it is a production of John Golden, one of the Guild associates. The box office will listen to seat buyers tomorrow and thereafter.

The Alvin box office has the wicket up even if the rest of the house is slumbering. The young gents in charge are ticketing up the customers for "Blossom Time" which comes to that thespic temple for the seventh, ninth, eleventh or thirteenth time of sumpin next Monday. The present company has been wowing em in the Windy City and points to the wind'ard. It includes Kathryn Reece and J. Charles Gilbert.

Small Timer says the wife hoots at the idea that anybody gave her away when she became a bride, contending that she threw herself away.

Week after next, when the Alvin is presenting its third Professional Players offering, "The House Beautiful," the Nixon will have its turn of being dark. Christmas week likely will see both houses unoccupied because folks don't go to shows that week until Christmas day. Since the holiday comes on Friday this year that would mean only two days of any promise to troupers. Hence most companies will be idle that week. Early futures for the Nixon include Gilbert Miller's new play, "The Animal Kingdom," by Philip Barry, with Leslie Howard, Otis Skinner and Maude Adams in "The Merchant of Venice," Civic Light Opera Company, Fred and Adele Astair in "The Band Wagon" and Paul Green's "The House of Connelly."

Small Timer says the brainy used to scoff about luck but now the lucky scoff about brains.

Pauline Lord, away from the stage for two years, is to return in "Distant Drums," authored by Don Totheroh, in rehearsal this week for production by Guthrie McClintic around the year-end ... Irene, who is playieting it on RKO stages, watched her gal tother night and thought she really was pretty good! ... The feminine lead with Richard Bartnelmess in "Alias the Doctor" will be Adrienne Dore, the "Miss Los Angeles" of 1926 ... Parking Romeos Should Be Given Competition

For 10 long years he's hung around Anne's hearthstone, taken up her time, kept her from getting interested in anyone else—and they have an "understanding."

But every time Anne mentions wedding bells or the little home she longs for, well

"Not just now," says he.

What would you do with a bozo like that if you had been Anne would like to know. Because curiously enough, in spite of all his ducking and dodging she's the girl who loves him.

"Dear Sally:

"I never thought I'd be one of the army of middle-aged souls who ask for advice, but here I am. And I sure do need some. Please tell me what you think of long engagements, or understandings.

"I want to know, because I've been 10 years now. I have been keeping company with a man who always avoids any discussion of us getting married, or even the fact that we're supposed to be engaged.

"He seems to be content to have our house to come to, to have our love affair just drift along toward nothing, so far as I can see.

"It isn't a question of money. He is financially able to support us nicely. I just can't understand what ails him. There's a thing to keep us from getting married, but he just seems to want to stay off that subject and stay away from the responsibility of having a home of our own.

TIRED OF DRIFTING

"I have honestly tried to get interested in someone else, but I can't seem to do it. My love for him is so strong that I just can't bear the thought of giving him up. But I am getting terribly tired of drifting along like this, never knowing what I can look forward to or what I'm

Time Turns Many a Tear Into a Hearty Laugh, Fay King's Observation

IN LOVE? I SHOULD SAY NOT! JUST FRIENDS!
I ADMIRE HER VERY MUCH— BUT NOTHING MORE
THEY DENIED THAT THEY WERE IN LOVE!
WE ADORE EACH OTHER!
WERE THE HAPPIEST COUPLE IN THE WORLD! NO TRUTH TO THAT SILLY RUMOR OF A DIVORCE!
BUT THEY DON'T LOOK IT!
NOW THE MATES THEY DIVORCED SO THEY COULD MARRY MUST LAUGH NOW!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Time has been called a great comedian, and it is true that Time turns many a tear into a hearty laugh.

Take, for instance, the couple who fell in love when they had no right to, each being married.

They denied that they were in love, of course, but anyone with half an eye could see that they were.

They got divorces and up until the second they were married they still denied they were in love.

Well, what heartaches their love caused then must be turned into hearty laughter now. They are now just as busy proclaiming their love as they once were denying it, but their acting has not improved.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

An 'Urgent' Wire Comes From Phil Veritzen

Yes." Dicky's voice held the upward inflection which he always uses when answering a telephone call, and I listened, bracing myself against the fantastic fear which had seized me at the ring of the telephone that it might mean the news of Hugh Grantland's death.

"This is Mr. Graham." Dicky's voice was crisp. "Mrs. Graham? Yes. I can call her if necessary, or I can take the message. What is the signature? Oh!" I'll call her."

His voice was suddenly flat, and my terror left me. It was no death message this, which, of course, I deduced to be a telegram, or Dicky's voice would have expressed a very different emotion. But what had brought that bored, displeased intonation?

"Madge!" Dicky's voice came up the stairs.

"Yes." I uttered but the single word with discreet comprehension of my husband's mood.

"Western Union message for you. Will you take it upstairs, please. Don't forget to have someone hang up the receiver down here when you're through."

The door closed emphatically behind him, and Lillian arched her eyebrows at me, but said nothing. Mary giggled delightedly.

Uncle Dicky's bending so far backward his head's touching the floor," she commented. "He isn't going to listen in even for the fraction of a second to his wife's private telegrams, no he isn't. But if you don't hurry up, Auntie Madge, I shan't be so discreet. My prophetic soul tells me—"

But I had reached the telephone by this time, and Mary checked her nonsense as I put the receiver to my ear.

"This is Mrs. Graham," I said. "Mrs. Richard Graham."

"This is for Mrs. Margaret Graham," a drawling feminine voice answered. I know most of the telegraph and telephone operators in our little circuit both by voice and sight, but this voice was strange to me, and I disliked instinctively its intonations as it queried: "Is your name Margaret?"

"Yes," I replied crisply. "From whom is this message?"

"I can't make it out very well, the last name, but the first name is Philip, and the last name begins with a V. I can query back," hopefully, "if you don't know it."

"I do know it," I said crisply. "Is it a long message?"

"Yes, a very long one."

"Then please send it over," I directed. "I do not wish it read over the telephone. I shall not be sure of hearing it accurately."

But it is marked 'urgent,' she protested, "and there is an answer requested. And we cannot deliver it for a half-hour."

Nevertheless," I said decidedly, "I wish it sent over as soon as possible. Good-day."

I hung up the telephone with the feeling that I did not care much if the telegram never reached me. For, of course, Philip V. meant Philip Veritzen, returning from the long tour which he had taken with his son.

I knew that my friends and relatives would marvel at my apathy. Surely, the prospect of seeing the most famous theatrical producer of his time, who had accepted two acts of a first play, ought to stir the pulses of any woman. But I knew what lay beneath an indifference which was almost reluctance, to deal with Philip Veritzen in any matter.

I had not seen him since the Christmas Eve, when, totally misunderstanding my appeal upon behalf of Mary and Noel, he had swept me into his arms, in the belief that I had at last yielded to his siege of me, for I could call his undesired attentions by no other name. The episode, even though Mr. Veritzen had explained and apologized so contritely that even Dicky was appeased, had left me with a hope that I never should have to see the great producer again.

Not even the whimsical assurance of Lillian—who knows him better than does almost anyone else in the world—that old Phil never would trouble me romantically again, could alter my aversion to seeing him. She had said that the "Madonna motif" had no appeal for him, and that his desire to win me away from Dicky had vanished with his knowledge of the advent of our little princess, Faith. And I had been given ample proof of her sagacity, for though Mr. Veritzen, with his usual lavishness, had sent exquisite flowers and gifts at the time of my little daughter's birth, and though he had written almost extravagant praise—for him—of the first two acts of the play I had commenced at his suggestion, yet he never had tried to see me since that Christmas Eve, and I, subconsciously, at least, had hoped that it would not be necessary for me to see him for a long, long time.

But this telegram marked "urgent" pointed, I was afraid, to an imminent interview, and as I turned from the telephone, I felt suddenly spent, as though I had been running.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The average girl is taller than her mother. The modern girl may keep late hours, live in a delirium of activity, but she knows more about hygiene and food values than her mother did at her age. She gets more exercise, more outdoor life. She is better developed. Where she slips is in the matter of posture; she does not carry herself as she should for the good of her backbone and her inner organs. But she'll learn.

Complexions that are still mottled from too much sunburn, too much tan and too little attention during summer months respond to combinations of creaming and cold packs. Pat in the cream after the skin has been washed with soap and water. When it is nicely spread wring a towel out of cold water and place over the cream. Follow with a hot one. Remove cream and use another cold compress.

You can tell the moderns from the die-hards by observing what they use for removing cold cream from the complexion. Moderns use cleansing tissues and toss them away, but the old-timers keep for the purpose an old towel which assumes the dark, dank complexion of a dust cloth, and which is carefully hidden away back of the various boxes in the upper bureau drawer. Even fastidious femmes cherish these oily rags.

When women learn that beauty, contentment, health, vitality and good nature form the fabric of a happy and successful life, they'll place less dependence upon lip sticks and other such things, and will scramble 'round to gather information that will lead to health of body and mind. No girl can be pretty who isn't up to standard health; her eyes won't do any star sparkles, her complexion will look gray, her stepping will be slow. Health is the temple of beauty; make-up just the trimmings.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Late Hours Affect Child's Disposition

Mothers sometimes complain that it is difficult to get their children to bed early. In some instances it may be the fault of the mother who is too lenient. In other cases the children may be to blame.

Dr. Copeland

The importance of sufficient sleep and relaxation for children cannot be over-emphasized. Children who are permitted to remain up until all hours of the night suffer startling set-backs.

I fear that most parents do not realize the great danger that children are subjected to when they remain up late at night. In addition to the loss of necessary sleep, these children acquire bad habits. When children are permitted to keep irregular hours they soon complain that they cannot sleep. If they are sent to bed early they do not sleep.

Remember that sleep is a habit. Once a habit has been established it is difficult to change. When a child has been taught to go to sleep at a certain hour, he has acquired a good habit. It will help to build up a foundation of good health.

On the other hand, when a child has been permitted to stay up late at night, he soon finds it impossible to go to bed early. Such a habit is to be condemned. It is detrimental to his health.

Children who keep irregular hours usually have bad dispositions. They are ill-tempered. They whine and cry for anything and everything. They get cross and are ill-tempered, not because of a really bad disposition, perhaps, but because they just do not get sufficient sleep. They are not rested and, of course, are disagreeable.

Too much play is as dangerous as too little sleep. Children who have played excessively are apt to be restless when they are put to bed. In consequence they are unable to sleep. They have played so hard, they are all worn out as a result of their excessive fatigue. They become stimulated to such an extent that they cannot sleep.

No doubt you have undergone similar experiences. Do you ever recall being so tired you could not sleep?

The day for the child should be planned in such a way that there is time to play, as well as time set aside for rest. When such a routine is kept, the child will have an appetite, eat his food and digest it. He will put on weight, grow and develop, as the normal child should.

It is well to remember that after the last meal of the day young children should not be permitted to romp boisterously. If play is permitted, it should be mild in nature. As bedtime approaches quiet should be maintained. All undue excitement should be avoided as much as possible.

For young children, as well as older ones and adults, too, it is a good plan to darken the sleeping-room. Such a room promotes sleep. The radio should not be going full blast at bedtime, and the house should be kept as quiet as possible. Undue noises will keep a child awake.

These few suggestions are worth while even though they may prove inconvenient to you for a short time. When your child has acquired the good habit of going to bed early and sleeping restfully, scoldings and quarrels disappear.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

Avoid making informatory doubles on a two-suit bid when your partner expects at least two quick tricks and strength in at least three suits. More often than not the doubler's weak suit is the one doubled, but sometimes he doubles with considerable strength in the adverse suit and weakness in one other suit, intending to support partner's response in either of two other suits, or to shift to no-trump in case partner's response happens to be in the doubler's weakest suit.

When considering making an informatory double remember that you must supply all tricks more than three required to fulfill the contract into which you force your partner.

To double 1-Club or 1-Diamond you must count not less than 4 assisting tricks, aside from trump length or ability to ruff; if needed to raise partner you may later on count three two features for added values. The next hand shows a holding justifying an informatory double of 1-Club.

Full informatory doubling value for 1-Spade, 1-Heart or 1-No Trump at your right are two sure tricks and five assisting tricks. The three probable tricks for which you give partner credit will just enable him to fulfill his response of two. Double 1-Heart on the first hand shown below, double 1-No

Your partner will make the opening lead of his best suit against a no-trump bid at your left. In case you hold something in the way of support for any lead he may make, why force him to bid against a declaration that cannot go game? Why not collect a small penalty in case your hands fit, rather than afford your adversary an opportunity to escape into some other make? Of course you should bid against a no-trump at your left in case a fulfilled contract will give opponents game. Full doubling strength is such a situation consists of two sure tricks and six assisting tricks, but a daring style often justifies doubling upon less strength.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Ingenious Kindness

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I enjoy reading your column and I really must say you are doing wonderful work solving so many problems to make us happy.

A friend of mine has gone to a distant city and I gave him money to buy me a pair of shoes in that city and also asked him to bring back something for my brother, just for an excuse; and when he returns with the gift for my brother, I will tell him that it is for him.

Please tell me if this is correct? READER.

Yes, I think this is a gracious and certainly ingenious thing to do, to repay him for his kindness in doing this errand for you.

Flower Girls

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What would the maid of honor and flower girls carry at a wedding where the bride carries a prayer book and rosary? It is going to be a morning wedding.

Flowers are carried by the bridal attendants, when the bride carries a prayer book. The maid of honor usually carries an arm bouquet, flowers to harmonize with her ensemble. The flower girls may, charmingly, carry bouquets made in the 1830 mode, the prim little bouquets of tiny flowers tightly packed in circles, with a small, perhaps yellow, rose in the center. The bouquet is surrounded with a lace or paper lace collar, and there are tiny streamers of ribbon from the bouquet. Or the flower girls may carry arm bouquets or baskets of flowers.

Household Hints

When beige-colored stockings have faded in the wash, strong cold tea makes an excellent cold-water dye for them.

When preparing fruit salad, sprinkle bananas, peaches, pears and apples with lemon juice and sugar as soon as they are cut. This helps to prevent discoloration.

Sometimes the most reliable dyes disappoint us and run on other articles in the washtub. If the stained garments are put into cold water and brought to a boil it will often take away these marks. Repeat if necessary, but do not use soap.

Recital Among Events for December

A most Christmasy looking bulletin has been sent out this month by the Woman's City Club. It is printed on silver paper, its cover is a lovely design drawn by Miss Anna Bell Craig, one of the club members. The first event listed is the recital by Edward Weiss, pianist, pupil of Ferruccio Busoni, whose program will include Bach-Busoni, Chopin and Liszt compositions.

Then on Saturday in the club lounge, E. Hall Downes will give a contract bridge lecture and stereopticon study on "Leads." Chester Marvin Wallace, of Carnegie Tech, is to give a reading of "The Barrets of Wimpole Street" at the drama tea on the 15th, and George Seibel, literary and dramatic editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is speaker for the library luncheon on the 19th. He will discuss "Modern Trends in Novel Writing."

Christmas music will be given by the club choral at the twilight musicale on the Sunday before Christmas, several of the old familiar carols as well as a group of modern Dutch ones by Julius Rontgen being included.

The bulletin also announces the third in the club's series of children's matinees, "Beauty and the Beast," January 2 at the Nixon Theater.

Just a bit out of the ordinary was the Christmas meeting of the Triborough Juniors, which was held last night in Miss Ann Thompson's home. No chairs were in evidence, as it was a fireside meeting, the girls sitting around the fire on cushions. The drama committee presented a playlet "A Mysterious Christmas at St. Cyr," and the program was completed with fireside caroling. The dolls and toys made for Christmas distribution and sale were on display.

SMART BERUFFLED DRESSES DESTINED FOR POPULARITY

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 2.—The drums of fashion are still beating out a prolonged ruffle for the beruffled dress. We do not remember a season that has given us so many dresses for day or evening, so plentifully befrilled. Women of slim figure delight in them, but, unfortunately, it is often women of ample girth who wear them. But a svelte form garbed in a frock that shows tier on tier of crisp ruffles, is certainly a charming sight. Scarcely a gathering here that does not disclose some of these frocks often in crisp taffeta, the ideal medium for this type of frock with its bouffant flare.

THERE IS AN old world charm about such a frock that is quite irresistible and makes us realize why the belles of yesteryear generally had more than their share of romance despite the absence of automobiles and the presence of several duennas and chaperones. Showing also are afternoon frocks with heaps and heaps of tiny pleated ruffles, an extremely effective form of trimming on an afternoon frock.

* * *

WE SHOW TODAY sketches of two frocks each seeking smartness through its series of perky ruffle. First we will analyze the very lovely evening dress which Mme. Lanvin, its designer has named "Traviata." It is of crisp ribbed taffeta in black and the beruffled skirt is very bouffant. It is lifted at the side of the front to disclose inside tier upon tier of small pink taffeta ruffles which line the same part as is ruffled on the outside. The dropped line and huge bow of the wide sash are particularly smart.

* * *

JENNY MADE the beruffled afternoon frock in royal blue crepe de chine. Two narrow bands of tiny pleated ruffles cross one another in front of the bodice. The bands widen as they pass to the front of the skirt and merge in a wide godet all ruffles with a marked circular movement at the lower edge. This house shows a decided tendency to concentrate the skirt fullness at the back, the fullness being always smartly handled though. The narrow belt fastens with a jewelled buckle in front.

The Tuesday Musical Club Choral gave its first choral program of the season before an audience of 400 in Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon. The choral, now in its 34th year, was never in better form. Dr. Charles N. Boyd directed, and Elsie Breese Mitchell was at the piano. Oscar Davis was the assisting artist, with Ferdinand Fillion at the piano. Eleanor Remick Warren was represented on the program by a new song, "Winter Night in the Valley," which is one of the most attractive recent additions to the repertory of choruses for women's voices. Another novelty was the Hungarian folk song, "Straw Guy," in an effective, rather modern setting by Zoltan Kodaly. Arkhangelsky's motet "Meet and Right It Is," was sung without accompaniment, and gave excellent opportunity to display the tonal quality of the chorus. Schubert's "The Omnipotence," was marked by strong contrasts, as was also Holst's "Hymn to Vena."

The program closed with "The Witches' Carnival," by Percy Fletcher, with Susan K. Myers, soprano, and Patti Rude Baldridge, contralto, as soloists.

Dale Whitby Westphal, Mrs. D. A. Rosser, Mrs. E. J. Edsall, Mrs. William Shafer, Mrs. George Swan, Mrs. S. H. Nichols, Mrs. George Garcelon and Mrs. Frank Dixon presided at the tea tables.

Culbertson and Lenz Will Write for You Themselves

Every contract bridge fan would like to have a "ringside" seat in the Chatham and Waldorf-Astoria Hotels when Ely Culbertson and Sidney Lenz test their bidding systems and play in 150 rubbers, beginning next Monday evening.

It would be interesting to look over the shoulders of these great players—but it will be even more interesting to learn from them first hand why they played a certain hand in a certain way, and why they won or lost.

This is what the Post-Gazette has arranged for you. As soon as each evening's play is finished, the two principals themselves will sit down and write the story of how and why the rubbers turned out as they did. Culbertson and Lenz have both written authoritative books on contract bridge, but nothing with the up-to-the-minute news interest of this.

The articles will appear in Pittsburgh exclusively in the

GREAT JUMP IN COST OF BASEBALLS

THE VISIT TO Pittsburgh yesterday of Bobby Lowe naturally led to a highly interesting batting discussion, for the former great second baseman, who is a native of New Castle, was, despite a rather frail physique, one of the real hitters of a day when many a big league contest was finished with the use of only one ball. Those were the days when, in the words of Bobby, "the oft hard-pressed club owner" "would chase up and down the streets after the balls when they were smacked over the fences."

Bobby Lowe

Honus Wagner happened to be in the Pirate offices when Lowe came in to call on Owner Dreyfuss. Bobby, as you well know, set a home-run record back in 1894 when, as tender of the keystone sack for the Boston Nationals, he rapped out four homers and a single in one game. His four homers came in succession, two of them in one inning. Two years afterward, the late Ed Delehanty, of the Phillies, matched Lowe's feat of four home runs and a single in one contest, and since Del's exploit the two famed old-timers have gone down through the stirring history of the sport as co-holders of the mark, and this in the face of a revolutionary tendency of the game which evolved a ball of such undue liveliness that the magnates had to hearken back to the old days for relief.

LOWE HAD SCARCELY clasped the hands of Dreyfuss and Wagner before the trio opened up a fanning bee that stressed the quality of the present-day ball and its short service record. When Lowe and Wagner were in their heydays and when scientific baseball was on tap daily, the expense incurred in purchasing the official rockets was so low that you would hardly believe the figures.

In the present-day game, with the umpires tossing in new balls almost in machine-like fashion, the vast sums of money expended for baseballs are astounding. If you were told that in the last 20 years the bills for the rockets had doubled, trebled or even quadrupled, you might not be greatly surprised. But if somebody informed you that a club paid 20 or more times as much now as it did 20 years ago, you'd probably ask for documentary evidence. And you could get it.

THE BASEBALL BILL of the Boston National League club in 1905, for example, was $400. In 1930 Fuchs McKechnie & Co. put out $8,500 for official spheres. Getting back home, it is found that Barney Dreyfuss in 1905 put out $585 for baseballs. Nineteen years later he sent in a check for $8,025 for the pellets used during a season.

The Brooklyn club's books show an even greater jump. The Dodgers spent $13,095 for baseballs in 1930, as against $525 in 1905, or just about 25 times as much.

LOWE RETAINS MUCH of the fire that made him a diamond luminary seven years in advance of Wagner. The New Castle boy entered the majors by way of Boston in 1890, and was loyal to the Hub cause for 12 years, or until Frank Selee, Boston pilot, moved to Chicago and took Bobby along as his captain. Lowe was doing his stuff like a star in 1903, when one of his legs was broken. The accident gave an opportunity to a kid who turned out to be a pretty fair second sacker. His name was Johnny Evers. Lowe went to Detroit from the Cubs the next season, and remained as a player in Tigertown several years before becoming a scout for the club. He held that position for almost a dozen years and then went to work for the City of Detroit. The old Boston quartet of Lowe, Fred Tenney, Herman Long and Jimmy Collins still gets the vote of many veterans when the greatest infields of all time are being discussed. With Bobby in Pittsburgh yesterday was his wife, who is just about as keen for baseball as her husband. They plan to visit relatives in New Castle for a day or two before returning to their home in Detroit.

Jess Quatse

AMONG THE INDIVIDUAL players who helped to make Pitt's line this year such an exceptional one, Jess Quatse is not being overlooked by coaches, scouts and critics who had a chance to observe the sterling work of the Greenaburger at left tackle for the Panthers. Ralph Sasse, Army mentor, has picked him as one of his all-America tackles.

The coach of one prominent team that met Pitt goes so far as to pronounce Quatse the best tackle he saw all season, and this man saw a lot of the good ones. Other leading football men join in praising the brilliant Jess, and he appears to have made such a fine impression generally that he is likely to be named on several of the other all-America teams picked throughout the country.

MYTHICAL TEAM BUILDERS may differ as to the merits of some individual Pitt linemen as compared with those of star forwards on some of the other leading college eleven, but they're a unit in naming the Pitt line as a whole as worthy of a ranking with the mightiest.

A prominent eastern official who was consulted by investigators for the New York Sun in the selection of an all-America team said: "In 30 years of refereeing football games I have never seen a line superior to Pitt's."

JUST BECAUSE THE powerful Green Bay Packers, professional football champions of 1929 and 1930, are running away with the title again, having beaten every other team in the National League so far and piled up 12 victories, the general opinion is that the management bagged the pick of the country's star players and kept them together by outbidding the other clubs in the loop. But Manager Curly Lambeau denies this.

"OUR CLUB IS not the highest-salaried one in the league by any means," Lambeau said. "Chicago and several others are spending more money. But there are other inducements. You see, we try to get every fellow who plays for us to live in Green Bay. We give him a job there and try to get him interested in the town.

"Every team has got to have spirit, an attitude of co-operation, to win. You know that from college teams. Well, we carry it a little further than dormitories do in colleges. We have the boys together all the year 'round. They go to work in Green Bay and stay there."

DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY ALUMNI next Wednesday night will entertain the 1931 football squad of the Bluff school with its eight graduating members who are to play the final game of their college careers in the charity meeting with Carnegie Tech at the Stadium Saturday afternoon.

Each year the old grads have been tendering a banquet to the gridders and though the admission price to others was reduced 50 per cent this time in order to put over an economy program, the committeemen assure that the Duke footballers will be well treated.

Elmer Layden

THERE WILL BE no sport celebrities from out of town when the Dukes of the past and present gather in the McCreery dining room. All of the scheduled speakers are Pittsburghers. They include Elmer F. Layden, head coach; John D. Holahan, graduate manager; Joe Bach, line coach; Aide (Buff) Donnelli, freshman coach; Charles R. (Chick) Davies, basketball coach, and Grant Sweed, tennis coach. Others who will be called upon for remarks are Rev. Charles Cherdini, former basketball star; John V. O'Connor, Michael J. Muldowney, Francis Keating and J. Frank McNamara.

BILL ALEXANDER NAMES FINE ELEVENS

By W. W. (BILL) ALEXANDER
Georgia Tech Coach and Member All America Board of Football
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

In selecting an all-Southern football team, or an all-star aggregation, for that matter, it is impossible to give proper consideration to many fine players who happen to be on weaker teams. A good player on a championship team is made to look even better than he really is by the fine help he receives from his teammates, while a good man on a weak team often is made to look bad by the ineffectual efforts of players alongside him.

The all-Southern team for 1931 is like all others that have been picked in the past or will be picked in the future. It is made up for the most part of players who happened to be on the better teams. It is hoped that some consideration can be given good players on weaker teams by placing them on the Honor Roll.

DAWSON AT QUARTER

Let us look over the backfield men first. The backs on the first team are Dawson of Tulane, quarterback; Cain of Alabama, fullback; Zimmermon of Tulane, left halfback, and McEver of Tennessee, right halfback. In my opinion this is the greatest backfield ever selected in the South. Dawson has piloted his team through an undefeated season. He has used fine judgment in selecting plays, leaning rather toward the conservative than the daring, flashy style. He is a great blocker and is a great hand in the secondary defense against forward passes.

A fullback, Cain of Alabama, is a standout. He weighs nearly 200 pounds, is six feet tall, yet has the speed of a halfback. He can crash a line and run the ends or go off tackle with the best. In addition, he is an ideal punter. He kicks left-footed and the ball breaks sharply to the receiver's right as it comes down. This makes his kicks difficult to catch as receivers are used to catching right-footed punts that break sharply to the left. On defense, Cain can play any position well, but his forte is backing up the line, a job that a fullback must do well to receive consideration for a all-star team.

Zimmerman, of Tulane, and McEver, of Tennessee, are equally great, but perfect foils for each other. McEver is short and stocky and crashes into the line or drives off tackle with the charge of a wild bull. Zimmerman knifes his way through the line of speeds around the ends with the agility of a deer. McEver is the bludgeon, Zimmerman the rapier. Both Zimmerman and McEver are perfect pass throwers and receivers. McEver is a bone-crushing tackler on defense and Zimmerman is par excellence in returning punts or knocking down long passes. With Cain and McEver backing up the line and Dawson and Zimmerman playing back to look out for long passes and kicks, the secondary defense of this theoretical team would be well nigh perfect.

Jerry Dalrymple, of Tulane, and Catfish Smith, of Georgia, are the choice for first team ends. They are the two most colorful players in the South. Dalrymple is a second Hinkey and the Catfish has managed to win games for Georgia in many different ways.

DALRYMPLE UNORTHODOX

Dalrymple plays as Dalrymple chooses and that way is different from any end in the world. On one play he smashes on the next he waits on the scrimmage line. On a forward pass by the other team, he will beat the ball to the passer and tackle him for a loss one time and on the next he will be 20 yards down the field to intercept the throw. He can smell a punt and never misses pulling the unexpected. On one kick he will block the opposing end on the line of scrimmage, on the next he will block the kick and on the next one he will be down field blocking in front of his safety man. Dalrymple can do anything any other end can do and in addition he can do many things that no other end can do.

FOUR FORMER CHAMPS WIN

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Four former champions scored first victories in the world pocket billiard championships yesterday. Ralph Greenleaf, Benny Allen, Johnny Layton and Frank Taberski disposed of opponents in easy fashion to join Erwin Rudolph, defending champion, and Onofrio Lauri, as leader.

Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., defeated Al Miller, of Racine, 125 to 56 in 17 innings, while Greenleaf downed Robert Lindblom, Los Angeles West coast champion, 125 to 12 in seven innings.

Greenleaf clicked a high run of 83 to approach the tournament mark of 85 set by Lauri.

HIGH IS SOLD TO REDS

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Andy High, star utility third sacker, was sold today by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Cincinnati Reds.

The sale of High was the most important player deal announced since the gathering of baseball magnates here this week. No details of the sale were divulged except that it was a straight cash transaction.

Other deals announced today include the sale of Nick Gullop, outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, to the Columbus American Association team.

The Reds also released and sold to the St. Paul Association club Ed Strelecki, a pitcher, and Clyde Beck, an infielder.

The American Association today decided to extend the closing date of 1932 season from September 18 to 25. The change was made because the first schedule was too crowded, calling for 168 games in 167 days.

TARTAN STAR GUARD BACK AT PRACTICE

By JESS CARVER

The mantle of worry, which has been on and off out at Carnegie Tech all this present football season, what with one thing and another, has been lifted with the return to practice of Tony Kebe, the man-of-the-minute right guard. Tony will be in harness Saturday against the Dukes in the big charity battle in the Stadium.

Tony Kebe

From the very first, the Tartans have been beset with injuries, especially in the line. First they lost Bunny Burzio and Croft, who missed out on a few quality points. Heinzer was shifted from fullback to guard, but he developed a bum leg and they had to toss Kebe in there. Tony was cracked up in the New York University game Thanksgiving and for a time, it looked like the Skibos would be without Tony for the game with the Dukes. He reported for practice yesterday however, still bruised and sore, but Trainer Bert Munhall and Tony's own determination are expected to have the Dutchman ready for Saturday's skirmish.

TECH DRILL LIGHT

Yesterday's drill at Tech was another light one. The Tartans are familiar enough with Duke plays to enable them to get by without any rough work this week, which is swell for the injured members of the squad. The starting Tech lineup likely will be the same as squared off against N. Y. U. Red Stewart and Tony Ostrosky holding forth at the ends, Fletcher and Forsman at the tackles, Kebe and Hooks Sample at the guards, Ducanis at center and Dueger, Capt. Armentrout, Kavel and Buck Ewing in the backfield.

In a way, this game is an odd one. The rival coaches are so very familiar with their rival's offenses that they are not handicapped by not having scouted one another this fall. Of course, both squads have had the opportunity of seeing the other in action, for the Dukes played a flock of Friday night games and were able to be at the Stadium to watch Tech on Saturday and the Skibos looked over the Dukes as they battled and beat North Dakota.

DUKE LINE TOUGH

This Duquesne line is going to cause the Skibos some trouble Saturday. It isn't the best college line in the country, and it isn't the worst. With Sinko or Niccolai and O'Donnell at the tackles, and Capt. Mike Ferrera and DeCarbo at the guards, Tech's plays inside the ends will find the going rugged. The Duquesne wingmen haven't been overly strong this year, Murphy, Baker and Abele showing to better advantage on the attack than on the defense.

Niccolai was used as an end in three games and came through commendably, but he's been shifted back to a tackle and Sinko benched. Maybe Layden will plant him at a terminal against the Plaid.

Yesterday the Dukes worked against the peppy freshman squad, Joe Bach and Buff Donnelli having equipped the Duke yearlings with Tech formations. Defensive work will continue to come in for plenty of attention right up until the game at the Stadium Saturday, the Duquesne coaches seeking to iron out the weaknesses which were apparent in the Howard game in Alabama.

Tonight, over KDKA, W. Don Harrison will speak, discussing the game and the cause for which it is being played. Tune in on this talk at 11:15.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

Americans	7—Toronto	2
Boston	3—Montreal	3

LONDON, Ontario, Dec. 2—(AP.)—The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets defeated London, 1 to 0, in a tight International Hockey League game on a goal in the last minute of the third period here last night.

With only 35 seconds remaining of the regular time, Gordy Fraser, Pittsburgh defense man, scored an unassisted goal. The game was remarkably free from penalties, only three being inflicted.

PLAY WINDSOR TOMORROW

The Yellow Jackets today were en route to Pittsburgh, where they will engage the Windsor Bulldogs at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night. It will be Windsor's first invasion of Pittsburgh this season.

In last night's conflict Pittsburgh players were laying back cautiously with less than a minute to go and a center ice faceoff had sent the rubber back to Gordon Fraser, veteran Jacket defenseman. Standing on his own blue line, Fraser merely shot a long looper to get rid of the puck and send the Tecs back to chase it. The disc bounced crookedly in front of Goalie Herb Stuart and then landed high in the twine.

The lineup:

London—0.		Pittsburgh—1.
Blanet	G	Cox
Hicks	D	Fraser
Holway	D	Bartlett
Neville	C	Rodden
Pettinger	W	Arbour
Gosh	W	Ingram

Third period—Pittsburgh, Fraser, 19:25. No penalties.

WILBUR COOPER — BARNEY DREYFUSS — HONUS WAGNER — BOBBY LOWE — DEACON PHILLIPPE

The cause of the above gathering was the visit of Robert Lincoln (Bobby) Lowe, oldtime National League second-base star, to Pittsburgh yesterday. With Ed Delehanty he shares the record of four home runs in one game. He is shown comparing the old "rocket" baseball, against which he and Honus Wagner did their hitting, with the deadly rabbit ball of two seasons ago, which made home-run hitting a joke, and the modified lively ball of last season. Cooper and Phillippe are former star Pirate pitchers.

SOUTHERN TEAM IS SELECTED

dition can run the other team crazy doing things no other end would dare to do.

Catfish Smith is an end who makes a business of winning games. He kicks the extra point to win, he blocks a punt to win, he catches a pass to win with four defensive backs hanging on him, he recovers a fumble to put his team in scoring position, he throws the other team for a 10-yard loss on the goal line and saves the game by doing the punting when the kicker is injured. The Catfish has won games by actually doing all of the stunts mentioned. Some critics say the Catfish is a poor end in some departments of the game, and I have seen him look bad on certain plays. But when the going is tough and the game hangs in the balance, you can bank on the Catfish. Any coach would be glad to have two poor ends like Catfish Smith.

GOOD TACKLES SCARCE

As usual, good tackles are scarce. This, in my opinion, is the most difficult position on a team to fill. A tackle must be big and tall in order to handle the position. He also must be fast on his feet and quick with his hands. So many big men fall in the last two qualifications. I have heard about a lot of big men playing tackle this year, but I like actually to see them in action before selecting them for an all-star team.

For the first team I have selected Leyendecker, of Vanderbilt, and Bush, of Auburn, because I saw them play and know they have the qualifications. In addition to that necessary defensive ability, Bush and Leyendecker are fine offensive blockers and fast getting down field under punts.

The guards on the first team are Hickman, of Tennessee, and Maddox, of Georgia. Maddox has been the backbone of the great Georgia line for three years. The redhead is a grand charger on defense and offensively can carry out any blocking assignment. Since the guards or one guard at least must pull out of the line and run interference ahead of the ball carrier on 70 per cent of the plays, this is a vital point in picking guards. Maddox does this stunt to perfection. Hickman is selected because of his great weight, unusual speed and unlimited strength. Probably no guard in the country will crash through an opponents' line and into the backfield as often as Hickman. He is a scourge to any offense.

NEBLETT AT CENTER

On offense, the center must be an accurate snapper. Let the center start passing the ball poorly and the best team in the world will go bad. On defense, the center must be able to play in the line and also must drop out and take up the duties of defensive fullback. A center should be tall, with great speed, otherwise he will be lost in pass defense.

Neblett, of Georgia Tech, is selected because he has kept a poor October team together and by his own inspiring example has turned that poor October team into a good November team. He also is the most durable player in the country. All through October he took a 60-minute lacing every Saturday because his teammates let so many ballcarriers come through for him to tackle. But he thrived on the punishment and drove on through nine games in magnificent condition.

This year's All-Southern, in my opinion is very much stronger than our last year's selection. The ends, guards and backfield men are much better, while the tackles and the center are only a shade behind those of a year ago. I feel that this team could hold its own with any team that might be selected from any other section. This team also has another advantage; everybody can pronounce most of the names.

SPORT VIGNETTES

It was a Pitt play that won for the Army over Notre Dame in their game in New York last Saturday, according to W. Don Harrison, athletic director of the Panthers, who witnessed the clash . . . Remember the unexpected long forward pass from Rip Collins, the end and punter, to Reider for Pitt's first touchdown in its 26-0 win over the Army at the Stadium several weeks ago? . . . Well, that play was practiced for use as a surprise feature against the Cadets, and it worked to perfection because Collins never before had passed in a game and when he went back on third down it naturally was assumed he was going to kick . . . Army was caught completely napping and never got over it.

Rip Collins

Profiting by the experience, Maj. Ralph Sasse, the Army coach, worked out a similar play for his team in its game with the Irish . . . Brown, the halfback, does the kicking for the West Pointers, but, like Collins, he never had been known to pass . . . Therefore, when he went back on third down and the ball on his own 43-yard line in the first quarter, Notre Dame settled itself for the customary kick, only to be astonished by a long pass from Brown to Stecker, who ran to the seven-yard line before being downed . . . From this point it was an easy matter to score, and Notre Dame, to all intents and purposes, was a beaten team, its back figuratively broken, following on the heels of its debacle against Southern California the week before.

When Notre Dame picks up the loose ends next fall, preparatory to making a fresh start, it will be with the knowledge that opposing teams have scored four touchdowns and a field goal against it since a Notre Dame eleven last scored . . . Which should be incentive enough to start clicking again right from the outset.

You can just kick it around that Tulane will make the trip to California for the Tournament of Roses game if it gets safely past Washington State in its final scheduled contest on Saturday . . . No decision will be made before the result of that game is in, and, if Tulane wins, as it should, Pitt can automatically count itself out of the running for the invitation.

Things that give us a pain in the neck are instances like Harvard barring a radio announcer because he says what he thinks of the playing of one of its pets and Boston College seeking to bar out another broadcaster because he comments on the scandal connected with its bloomer benefit game . . . Ye gods and little fishes, isn't even the air we breathe free any more? . . . Or have we quit breathing entirely to hear the air? . . . Or get the air?

The Jackie Rodgers-Moose Butch show at New Castle last Monday night drew less than $500 and Promoter Apples Meyers is contemplating throwing up the sponge after two offerings in the town . . . Don Asto, Uniontown boxer, now is located in Brooklyn and likely will be heard from boxing around New York shortly . . . A brother, Sammy Asto, made his professional debut the other night . . . Joey Ross, of Cleveland, has turned down a match with Jimmy Thomas to go as a companion 10-rounder to the Battling Gizzy-Sammy Dorfman show at Meter Square Garden next Monday night, and Matchmaker Jules Beck now is casting about for a substitute.

BENEFIT GIVEN COUNCIL O. K.

"That Council indorse the benefit game proposal and the members pledge themselves to purchase tickets and urge the general public to be generous in the purchase of tickets so that this affair may be a financial success."

The resolution was introduced by Councilman W. Y. English.

The ticket committee announced today that even its fondest expectations of a large crowd may be exceeded if the day is a fair one. The advance sale has been so heavy that there is a chance of a crowd of 40,000 or 50,000 instead of the 25,000 to 30,000 goal originally set.

The Coach's Viewpoint

By Howard Harpster

The 1931 football season will draw to a close Saturday in the Pittsburgh district, when the elevens of Carnegie Tech and Duquesne meet on the gridiron for the first time, in a charity game at the Stadium . . . A unique feature of the battle is the fact that all proceeds will go to charity, there being no guarantees or expenses whatever connected with the staging of the game . . . Another fact which will serve to make the affair all the more inviting is that the two schools actually will be playing football, rather than just putting in an afternoon, as frequently is the case in charity tilts.

Howard Harpster

It was a wise move on the part of the sponsors of the game to have all expenses for staging it donated. . . . The officials are to work without compensation, the tickets have been printed free of charge, and the advertising and Stadium have been obtained without cost. . . . Furthermore, there will be no complimentary tickets, and players, coaches, graduate managers, newspapermen and all spectators will be required to purchase tickets, giving everyone an opportunity to do his bit.

Carnegie and Duquesne both have made fine gestures in offering the services of their teams. . . . The game will mark the first time that the Catholic school has met either of the other Pittsburgh universities in football, although it has been attempting to break in on the Big Two for the past few years. . . . The Tech authorities are deserving of much credit for sanctioning the game, for they are risking to a great extent their reputation in meeting the Dukes at this time, following one of their poorest seasons.

I am thoroughly convinced that this game will be one of the most interesting of the local season, and all it needs now is about 50,000 spectators. . . . I'll see the other 49,999 at the Stadium—I've already bought my ticket!

LIGHTWEIGHT LOOP PLAYOFF CARD SET

By TOM BIRKS

Only a few Lightweight Conference games, one charity game—and the 1931 sandlot football season will have drawn to a close. The announcement that the James P. Rooney's West Penn Conference champions would meet a team of all-stars from the loop a week from Sunday probably will make a hit with the fans.

The playoff in the Lightweight Conference starts Saturday afternoon. At Stowe High School field, the Rox Rangers, champions in Section I, meet the Sonny Boys, titlists in Section II. Toby Uanas, former Pitt star, coaches the Rangers and Tony Sweet, erstwhile Carnegie Tech ace, handles the destinies of the Sonny Boys. Both aggregations hail from McKees Rocks.

PLAYOFFS BEGIN

The gesture of Manager Art Rooney in placing his collegiate gridders at the disposal of the charity fund committee is worthy. The popular North Side sportsman always seems to be helping, and Rooney, with his supporters, will work their heads off to put the thing over in a big way.

AID IS DONATED

According to the sponsors of the Christmas fund, all help will be donated. Burgess Atkinson and Paul Munro, manager of West View, have gone into the thing deeply, and the game, to be played at West View Park, will find the West View firemen and police donating their services.

The makeup of the all-star team soon will be announced. It is going to be one that will fully extend the champion.

Oakmont is to play the Blawnox Scholastics in a benefit game at the Aspinwall High School gridiron Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

STOCK SLUMP AGAIN AFTER RALLYING

Some Rail Shares Tumble To New Lows as Selling Of Carriers Is Resumed

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP.) — Stocks were stimulated for a while today by the recommendation for a Canadian railroad wage cut, but slumped early in the afternoon when selling was resumed in the low priced rails.

The news from Ottawa came as the Wabash receivership for an hour or so and the market rallied vigorously after a few minutes of heaviness at the opening. Unfavorable action on the Rock Island preferred dividends, negative mid-week trade statistics, a weak bond market and a more gloomy appraisal of some railroad situations contributed to a definite downswing soon after noon however, and a number of active stocks dropped to new lows.

St. Louis and Francisco common tumbled about 4 points and the preferred nearly as much. Atlantic Coast Line also lost 4 while Rock Island, Illinois Central, New York Central and Atchison sagged 2 to 3. The Wabash issues sold at nominal equivalents 10 for preferred A, breaking 3 points. These losses followed earlier advances of 1 to 3 in the Steels. United States Steel dropped a couple of points, although it had been up higher. Western Union, American Telephone, Allied Chemical and other leaders were also in sympathy. Radio made a new minimum.

The Wabash receivership ranked as a surprise to many investors who had expected that concerted efforts to help the railroads would attach first and before action terminating receivership would become effective. Spokesmen for the road stressed the intensive efforts that had been made to provide its essential relief.

Another important railroad meeting will be held in Chicago next week by executives here. Following a conference of Canadian Minister of Railways and Canals with President Hoover here, a recommendation for a reduction in railroad wages, and a similar reduction in Canada's railroad wages will go into effect May 1.

Canada's action, it was believed, will play an important part in influencing opinion here. Others stated today that their belief that the railroads would be able to place many men back to work on the payroll maintenance requirements should the brotherhoods' leaders recommend accepting such a reduction.

A sharp rally which carried the British pound sterling to $3.45, a maximum gain of 14 points, lost some of its strength in later dealings but still retained most of the gain. Other exchanges were little changed with the exception of Scandinavian currencies which rallied sharply in sympathy with sterling.

COTTON SELLS AT ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Cotton opened steady today 3 points higher to 2 points lower on covering and some Southern selling. Offerings were small and the pace of trading was quiet.

Trading was quiet at the start but became a little more active after the opening with prices working up slightly as offerings were comparatively light and some covering seemed to be prompted by rallies on an opening decline in the stock market. January sold up from 6.01@6.03c and May from 6.36@6.41c making the more active months about 7 to 8 points net higher by the end of the first half hour.

The market was quiet later in the morning but held fairly steady with very little pressure in evidence except for some selling by brokers supposed to be operating for the co-operative associations and Japanese account. This was absorbed by covering of trade buying and the market at midday was steady with January around 6.06 cents and May 6.42 cents, or about 5 to 6 points net higher.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 2.—Cotton: Spot in better demand, improved business, prices 6 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling 5.82, good middling 5.42, strict middling 5.22, middling 5.12, strict low middling 5.02, low middling 4.92, strict good ordinary 4.72, good ordinary 4.42. Receipts 16,000, American 100. Futures closed barely steady: December 4.79, January 4.78, March 4.78, May 4.80, July 4.84, October 4.91, December 4.93.

LESS PIG IRON PRODUCED

Pig iron production underwent a further decline in November. On a daily basis, the loss was about 2.8 per cent, compared with October output, or about the same as the drop from September to October. The total for the month was 1,103,472 gross tons, or 36,782 tons a day, compared with 1,173,283 tons in the previous month. The recession in the daily figure was 1,066 tons, against the October daily decline of 1,076 tons.

There was a loss of three furnaces during the month, leaving 67 in blast, compared with 69 at the lowest point of the 1931 depression.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. Volume of business contracted further on the Curb market today and price fluctuations in favorite stocks were limited. The trend was rather definitely toward the side, but the movement seemed of many slight significance.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (AP.) Following is a list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange today, compiled by the Associated Press. Unless otherwise specified, all stocks and bonds traded in are listed. Sales are reported in hundreds of shares except bonds, which are in thousands. Sales not included in the list are for odd lots of stocks and $1,000 in bonds.

ANTI-TRUST ACT UNPOPULARITY INTENSIFIED

Increasing Desire Shown For Change on Lines of Co-operative Planning

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The depression has intensified the dissatisfaction among thoughtful persons with the existing anti-trust laws in the United States.

Negative in character, the prevailing system of regulation does not emphasize the positive services which society expects from business. Sentiment is growing for modernization of the anti-trust laws along lines which will encourage rationalization and forward co-operative planning.

Mr. Rukeyser

Following a forum on the subject by New York University earlier this fall, Columbia University has started a symposium on the anti-trust laws.

Articulating the growing enlightened demand for revision, Walton H. Hamilton, of Yale University, said:

"The scheme of control which I proposed for bituminous coal is a single illustration of a constructive attack upon the problem. Its features are a single corporation, a complete separation of ownership and control, and the conduct of the industry by a directorate composed in equal numbers of representatives of producers and consumers."

"The Sherman act, as a device for keeping prices down to cost of production, has failed—and in many industries the consumer is left without protection.

COMPETITION EVIL

"In other industries over-competition has resulted in capricious prices and bankruptcies, to the detriment of the producers. It has failed to provide a first line of industrial defense—at least enough of stability in industrial conditions to allow to the dependents of the industry a minimum living and a chance to find out a way of life.

"The failure is in no small sense due to current business facts which are out of harmony with the assumptions underlying competitive theory. The failure is most significant in industries marked by a large overhead, surplus capacity and diminishing unit cost."

Though revision of the anti-trust laws is plainly in order, there should be no overemphasis on the subject. The depression is ascribable to the cumulative weakness of anarchic and uncoordinated business. To the extent that the anti-trust laws interfere with economic planning and co-ordination they have contributed to the present breakdown.

BRITAIN FIGHTS INFLATION

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Scooped out of new low ground by a late rush of short covering, the pound sterling closed this afternoon at a figure ranging between $3.38¾ and $3.39¾, representing a net gain of 14¾ points from the opening price. The pound opened at $3.25, four points under yesterday's close.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The British Treasury has decided to maintain its fiduciary issue—that part of the note issue not covered by gold—at £275,000,000, it was announced last night.

The authority of the Bank of England to issue fiduciary bank notes to that amount was extended until December 14. The issue was increased by £15,000,000 on August 1. The announcement sets at rest rumors that the Treasury intended increasing the fiduciary issue in view of the Christmas demand for currency.

"The banks and Lombard street remain convinced that the authorities will be able to prevent inflation and equalize the trade balance by forcing all of us to tighten our belts. The strain on sterling may be gradually lessened by buying food from the dominions and from countries that are not on the gold standard. Some are actually talking about ration cards to enable the government to limit overseas purchases as they did in war time."

Tobacco Growers To Seek U. S. Help

OWENSBORO, Ky., Dec. 2 (AP.)—Hundreds of farmers of the dark tobacco belt, disappointed and enraged by prices offered by buyers on Owensboro's auction floors, will sell no leaf here until higher prices are offered.

Sales were stopped at warehouses yesterday when farmers shouted, jeered, threatened to wreck the warehouses and refused to sell their leaf at the prices bid. Owensboro banks reported they cashed very few warehouse checks, indicating most of the farmers had rejected the offers.

The farmers decided no more sales be held until next Monday, so they might have an opportunity to seek the aid of the Federal Farm Board.

STEEL OUTPUT UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Iron Age tomorrow will say:

Under the influence of the approaching inventory season, steel business has lost ground in some districts, but the delayed contracts of the Ford, Chevrolet and Chrysler automobile companies probably will be on mill books this week or next and will aid in offsetting the usual year-end dullness. The Ford orders, which will range from 100,000 to 300,000 tons for December and first quarter, are to be more widely distributed than usual, affording work for several steel producing districts.

Ingot production is lower at Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Cleveland, but is up slightly at Chicago, where business recently has been conspicuously poor. There are gains also at Buffalo and Birmingham because of the operation of mills that run only alternate weeks. The average for the country is at 29 per cent for the second week. Steel production is maintained in part because of the desire of producers to give as much work as possible to employes prior to Christmas.

November steel output, when officially reported next week, undoubtedly will show a small gain over that of October, despite the fact that the three major lines of consumption, automobiles, building and railroads were taking much less than their normal share of the total.

Price declines on some products and weakness in others foreshadow a lower level for the first quarter.

November Business Failures Decrease

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Business defaults in the United States in November numbered 2,195, compared with 2,362 in October and 2,031 in November of last year, R. G. Dun & Company reports. There was a decrease last month from October of 167, or 7.1 per cent, while the comparison with November of 1930 showed a rise of 164, or 8.1 per cent.

Fuel Issues Hold Firm Tone as List Displays Broadening Tendencies

Prices were inclined to move forward in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, influenced by the impressive manner in which the rails on the "big board" accepted the receivership of the Wabash Railway.

The trading list here showed a broadening tendency, but the volume in the individual issues remained light. Fuels were firmer with Lone Star up a small fraction and Shamrock showing a gain of almost a point.

In the industrial section some of the stocks moved up a little from the bottom levels at which they had been hovering for the past few days. A small block of Allegheny Steel appeared on the board at 26, the first sale in the issue since October 3, when it sold at 25. Fireproofing preferred slipped three points. Brewings were higher.

WHEAT PRICES SHOW GAINS

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Wheat prices averaged higher and corn lower early today. Upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations with improvement in British exchange rates gave some encouragement to wheat bulls. Opening unchanged to ½ cent up, wheat afterward rose all around, but then receded. Corn started at ⅛ decline to ¼ advance and subsequently sagged.

To a considerable extent, new buying of wheat futures here was based on the fact that the Liverpool market had made a full response to price advances on this side of the Atlantic. There were also forecasts that arrivals of wheat at Liverpool during the next two weeks would be light. Unfavorable weather conditions were reported from Argentina, where the wheat harvest was in progress.

A Santa Claus Visit and Some Cheery Facts

By B. C. FORBES

I HAVE JUST VISITED with my 3-year-old Santa Claus in a very large department store. It was crowded.

My wife—with I suspected a slight insinuation that I have not been drawing in for her a sufficiently cheerful picture of conditions—remarked:

Mr. Forbes

Later, when we got into a taxi, the streets were so jammed with automobiles that progress was extremely slow. She asked cynically, I rather think:

"Are all these people riding to the poorhouse?"

I had been dropping hints lately that Santa Claus might not treat her this year quite as generously as in other years. This outing has not helped me a bit!

It was only the other evening that some out-of-town friends who had been "doing" New York in lively fashion told me of having visited speakeasy after speakeasy and having found each one crowded with bartenders working perspiringly.

What can one make of it all?

THEN, TOO, I lunched with a Buick executive and here are some of his statements:

"Over 2,000,000 people visited our showrooms when we announced our new models. This is exactly twice the volume we ever attracted before. Here we are in a so-called depression yet by the exercising of faith and courage and tremendously aggressive advertising we interested thinking America in an automobile product to twice the extent in any other year.

"Better still, the people are actually buying. We believe that, by continuing very aggressive sales promotion and advertising, Buick will experience a very satisfactory 1932."

There you are again.

SOME OF MY young friends tell me of their adventures in trying to attend popular football matches. When they motor, they say, the roads begin clogging up with cars miles away.

They picture the crowds of spectators as at least equaling anything they have ever before seen. Prices apparently have not come down, either.

So it would seem as if there has been no slump in spending for sport.

ONE READER writes that he recently switched from the bond business to Timken-Detroit oil burner and adds:

"Though 1929 was a good year for this company, 1930 was 56 per cent greater. So far this year we are 45 per cent ahead of last year. Who said we had depression? Although we offer 24 months' financing, we are having a larger percentage of sales for cash than ever before. September was the largest month Timken ever had."

PERHAPS THE trouble with a lot of people is that they regard the dizzy peak of 1929 prosperity as the situation this country — and they — should normally enjoy. Naturally such childish reasoning breeds disappointment, bitterness, even despair.

That prosperity peak was no more normal than are the conditions we have lately experienced. This year represents one extreme just as 1929 represented the other extreme.

What we can hope for and look for and work for is a return to conditions midway between the two extremes. Because of our unconscionable excesses during the boom, the struggle back to normal necessarily had to be painful. It still is painful.

That inflation has been drastically eradicated in almost every direction and that deflation has already been carried over-far in many directions, cannot be questioned. We must not expect to leap into a new era of inflation at one swift bound. It is however reasonable to conclude that nothing worse than has already happened can happen all over again.

We have reached levels so low that it is logical to look for tangible betterment as soon as our mental attitude becomes better.

If you have a job, stop whimpering. Work!

Many Fixed Trusts Plan to Liquidate Soon

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE NUMBER OF FIXED investment trusts in existence will be materially reduced in the coming year in the opinion of investment bankers specializing in this field. The unsatisfactory volume of sales of all but a few of the trusts has made continued operation unprofitable for the sponsors. This is expected to result in a series of liquidations. In some cases arrangements may be made for the exchange of shares of trusts to be liquidated for other trusts.

During most of 1930 investment houses found it difficult to get sufficient distribution of bonds, but fixed investment trusts offered a sales medium which tapped new sources of investment capital. In addition the profits from the operation and distribution of the large fixed trusts were known to be tempting.

The outstanding success of the pioneer fixed trusts was followed by the formation of nearly 200 similar investment offerings. Under the pressure of adverse business conditions, which have curtailed fixed trust share sales this year, it was obviously impossible for all these to pay their way.

Sponsors Lose Interest

AS PROFITS HAVE failed to materialize on the smaller trusts, the sponsors have been losing interest. In many of the older trusts the fees of the trustees holding the deposited stocks were not fully provided for in advance. In others the trustees may find their remuneration unsatisfactory due to the fact that the trusts have not reached their expected volume. Where such conditions are found it is quite likely that the trustees will resign at some time in the future. This will result in the sale of the underlying stocks and the distribution of the proceeds to the fixed trust shareholders.

Foreseeing this condition the New York Stock Exchange has insisted that the new fixed trusts approved by it provide for the entire fees of the trustees in advance. This guards against the possibility of the trusts being dissolved before the stated expiration periods.

Number to Be Reduced

AT THE BEGINNING of the present year about 180 fixed investment trusts were known to be in operation. Since that time the number has dropped to 118. Many of these, however, never secured any wide distribution and were liquidated shortly after their formation.

A study of the volume of fixed trust share sales indicates that only about a dozen have been outstandingly successful. Of the 41 fixed trusts approved by the New York Stock Exchange last summer, the sales of only 10 exceeded 500,000 shares. Only seven passed the 1,000,000 mark. Five of these had under 5,000,000 shares outstanding, while two trusts had undisputed leadership in volume with 17,000,000 and 20,000,000 shares, respectively, outstanding.

New Series Offered

NEW SERIES OF TRUSTS are being offered by both of these leaders in the field. Many features of these represent vast improvement over their predecessors. Among these are improved elimination clauses, the abolition of reserve funds, a choice between the maximum distribution and the maximum accumulation types of trusts and selection of stocks in the portfolio which appear more desirable under present conditions.

Owners of shares in the older trusts are being solicited to exchange their holdings for shares in the new series. While special terms are usually made for the exchange, it must be remembered that the trade involves a considerable amount of expense. This will be apparent through the fact that the new shares received in exchange for old ones will represent a reduced value in portfolio holdings.

CANADIAN RAIL CUT FAVORED

OTTAWA, Dec. 2. The conciliation board appointed to investigate the wage dispute between the Canadian railways and their principal groups of employes reported today in favor of the 10 per cent cut proposed by the companies.

The impression in government circles here is that the finding of the board will be accepted by the railway employes. A minority report opposed the cut.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Dec. 2. Intimation that the railway running trades might not accept the finding of the conciliation board for a 10 per cent reduction in wages was given today by James Murdock, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Murdock presented the men's case to the conciliation board during its sittings here.

Allis Chalmers Gets Large Order

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company has received an order for $1,000,000 worth of transformers and switch gear equipment from Pennsylvania Railroad.

Reliance Life Sales High in November

Life insurance written in the Pittsburgh district last month by the Western Pennsylvania department of Reliance Life Insurance Company, of Pittsburgh, broke all November production records in its history, according to an announcement by H. T. Burnett, manager of the department. The volume of $2,198,865 life insurance in November was an increase of 41 per cent over the production in November, 1930, in this district. Accident and health insurance also showed a substantial increase over November, 1930.

Employment Higher In Great Britain

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Total registered unemployed in Great Britain on November 23 amounted to 2,615,115, a decrease of 33,314 from the total of 2,648,429 on November 16 and comparing with 2,286,460 on November 24, 1930.

CORPORATE TRUST SHARES

OLD SERIES

The issuance of the new series of Corporate Trust Shares has in no way lessened the investment strength and stability of the original series. The life of the original trust is for 25 years, of which more than 22 years have yet to run. Its affairs will continue to be administered as heretofore by the independent trustee, The Chase National Bank of the City of New York.

In creating the two new series, it has been the aim of the sponsors to add new and desirable features based on a long and successful experience in the fixed trust field.

Holders of the old series may exchange into shares of either of the new series. The exchange of shares of the old series for those of the new series is in no way compulsory or necessary in order to protect the interests of holders. Each holder may determine for himself after careful consideration whether or not he chooses to make the exchange.

Every Little Girl Will Be Interested in What the SUN-TELEGRAPH Doll Lady

Has to Say Today

Here Is Her Daily Pre-Christmas Letter:—

Dear Little Girls:—

Here we are, right into December and well on our way to Christmas. The time is going to be altogether too short to do everything I want to do before the holidays. I can see where I am going to be right up to my eyebrows in work. But this kind of work—spreading sunshine—is so satisfactory that I don't mind it. The joy I give to the little girls who do the little things I ask them to do to get one of my adorable "Honeybunch" dolls well repays for the days and nights I have to employ before the holiday season closes.

Meet My "Honeybunch"—the DOLL Of All Dolls—

Several scores of little girls have already secured their big, lovable "Honeybunches" and they are already assured of a happy Christmas. I don't think that there is anything in the world that will give a little girl greater happiness than a big, lovely doll—no matter what time of the year. Of course, I believe that my "Honeybunch" will contribute more real joy than any other doll.

I am mighty glad that I have a big supply of "Honeybunches" this year, but for fear that the supply will run out, the doll makers are still working day and night for me. As fast as I take them out of the big doll house they put new dollies in their place.

Every little girl who has received a "Honeybunch" has been made happy beyond description. "Honeybunch," you know, is different than any other doll and she is not on sale in any of the stores. In the first place she is nearly as tall as this newspaper is long, has a sparkling smile, twinkling eyes that open and close, a charming voice that reaches your heart, beautiful organdy clothes in dainty colors with lace cap to match, rubber hands and arms that are unbreakable, rubber panties, a pacifier and she really does a lot of cute thing that real babies can do.

Hundreds of little girls of Pittsburgh and vicinity have already found that she is really easy to get. Any little girl who wants one all for her very own can have a "Honeybunch" by doing the simple, easy things I ask her to do. Now if you want one, send me your name and address on the Doll Lady coupon in this announcement and I will send you a letter telling you just what you must do to get this big, glorious doll before Christmas. And I'll also send you a dandy picture of "Honeybunch" in colors.

Laurel Pays Visit to Queer Speakeasy With Two Of Her Friends

CHAPTER XI

Next afternoon Freddie DeFarge and Imogen arrived at Laurel's home to take her up to New York in the former's roadster.

"I tell you, Im, I'd a chat with that doctor chap about trial marriage," said Laurel when the three were settled in the front seat, and Laurel sitting in the middle.

"Humph! Did he respond? Or was he shocked?"

"The right word is 'psychopathic.'"

"Oh, I'm not as neurasthenic as some of the other females in our crowd. D'you know, today his sweet influence I spent a solid hour this morning practicing the violin."

"Music hath charms," and so has he, apparently.

"Im, he really is most frightfully attractive."

"Then why didn't you ask him into the party for tonight? You know I've liberty to take anybody up to Timmy Tewson's."

"He'd think it a kind of love."

"Oh, nothing so TAME, dear heart! What with the pas and the wild animals drinks around it, and the paths dotted about where the whoopee goes on, it's a lot more like a JUNGLE."

"You said it, Laurie."

Jeered Freddie—"If you think that's so, then you don't know the wild, wyld wimmin as I do."

Imogen leaned forward. "Now, Freddie . . . nothing obscene!"

"And you men don't love gossip either, I suppose." "Come on, now, spill the beans about Mrs. Delahunt and her French chauffeur."

"He taught her French when she was over in Europe this spring—"

"He taught her a lot more than French, from all I've heard," twittered Imogen.

TEWSON WEALTHY

"Miaow! Miaow! Please, please, I shan't tell you another thing."

"Because Mrs. Delahunt gives gorgeous parties, you think you're indebted to her?"

"'Course I am. Always the little gentleman."

Imogen sank back disappointedly in her seat.

"Freddie is close-mouthed when he wants to be," she murmured peevishly to Laurel. "I shouldn't be surprised if he had a whirl with Mrs Delahunt himself, even though she's old enough to be his mother."

"Montparnasse is a wild and wooly place. Isn't it, Freddie, dear?" said Laurel.

"Somewhat. 'Tis where the Americans let out the kinks and hit the high spots. And how!"

"Oh, they do that everywhere," commented Imogen. "As a fountain of worldly knowledge, Freddie, you're not so hot as you think you are."

"Don't look at me with those vibrator eyes, old dear, or my steering'll go bloocy!"

"Come on, Laurel, let's tap without including him. D'you know that Timmy Tewson is simply crawling with money?"

Inside the narrow hall he presented the two girls to her. She shut the door quickly and the lock snapped behind them.

"This is Miss Oakes and Miss Faulk. Nice babies, but thirsty whoops. You'll admit them any old time," said Freddie with a flourish.

"Why, any friend of yours is welcome some night back to our cocktail hat," said the woman, ingratiatingly.

"Where on earth have we got to," whispered Laurel as they followed their hostess. "Gosh, I feel creepy."

A hush was over everything. It was only when they got out to the bar that the silence was broken by the tinkle of ice against glass.

The proprietress laughed good-naturedly at the cognomen.

"I wish I were a Cleopatra," she said frankly, "so that I could wring millions once more out of you men."

But with a splash of Scotch in it (of course, ingratiating) said the woman.

There was no sign of a cash register anywhere.

Because of the police, dear heart," whispered Freddie archly. "They've popped in once or twice in a pseudo-friendly sort of way on track of money transactions. They couldn't find anything tangible because of the small idea of these little perforated tickets . . . $1 per drink . . . which I bright lad that I be originated. After a little palm-oil which they froze onto instantly and a couple of Scot hes which they downed like savages, they departed.

"The police took the drinks, you mean?"

"Of course they did. The understanding was that minus the cash register, this was a private house. Of course just the same they were wise to it."

She returned with three young men. By their general appearance they had already looked upon the wine when it was red.

The hostess introduced them to Laurel, Imogen and Freddie. She whispered to Laurel with a hinge impress the fact that the one who bought the $50 book was awfully rich.

The proprietress, as though she had a sixth sense which told her Laurel was uneasy, approached them affably.

"You haven't been upstairs. It's rather unique. One of the most original decorators a dear friend of mine who lives in Paris designed it."

They tripped up narrow stairs in the wake of Cleo. Went down a short corridor, and into a moonlight room.

Instead of chairs or sofas, there were silver mattresses laid upon the floor against the walls.

The floor itself had been treated by some sort of silver substance . . . and the one tall lamp (the shades being drawn, although it was full daylight) cast a sickly blue beam, to represent the moon!

"What's the idea?" whispered Imogen.

"Romance—and drinks, dear heart," Freddie informed her. "And speaking of the latter—isn't that a victim?"

"Well, I don't know what all the shooting's for," said Imogen disagreeably, "it isn't what I'd call so hectic . . ."

"You wait," said Freddie, feeling that his prestige as a man-about-town was being challenged, "in the next half hour the most interesting kind of people'll blow in."

"Well, dramatic critics and the like. Big writers. Follies girls. Theatrical producers. And, of course," he slowed his words down, to add emphasis, "always a sprinkling of millionaires."

"Ho? The last 'listens good.' But you've got to convince me. Meantime, since I'm wasting my sweetness and light on nothing," said Imogen, "what about another little drink?"

Said Freddie cheerily, "Then that's all the better for me and Imogen."

Then a dreamy-looking long-haired youth appeared. He ensconsed himself at the piano.

"Everyone does exactly as they please here," said Cleo, all affability. With a comprehensive wave of the hand, and a murmur of names, she introduced the company to each other. "Make yourselves at home."

And then Laurel noticed the extraordinary decorations on the walls. There were weird drawings splashed all across them, "telling a history" as in the style of ancient China or Egypt.

Synopsis

Laurel Oakes, "modern" to the minute, is invited by her friend, Imogen Gay, who is even more sophisticated, to attend a party in an old deserted farmhouse. When the party gets too wild for Laurel she leaves. Going to her roadster on a dark road, Laurel discovers the tires slashed. Running madly down the road, she is picked up by Bruce Harvey, a young physician, who takes her home. Laurel tells her mother that pleasure means more to her than love or romance. Laurel decides to make a favorable impression on Dr. Harvey when she returns home and discovers him having tea with her mother. Laurel rides to a hospital with Harvey and waits outside in his automobile for a long time until he returns. Later, Harvey tells Laurel that she ought to stop seeking pleasure and get married.

Now Go On

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Boys and girls are ransacking attics, playrooms and cupboards today, looking for castoff toys. Tomorrow they will take them to the toy matinees at the 13 neighborhood Warner theaters, where they will be admitted without charge between 2:30 and 5 o'clock. The toys will be piled upon the stage and taken to the Toy Mission for distribution among the poor on Christmas Eve.

Ever since the toy matinees were announced at the Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club meetings last Saturday, theater managers have been receiving calls from members of the club. One boy promised to bring a velocipede. A little girl finds that her roller skates are too short this year. She is bringing them to the Toy Matinee.

Our club pledge reads: "I will do my best to spread good cheer." Here's your chance!

PRINCE (AMBRIDGE) CHAPTER

There's a peppy card in the Prince (Ambridge) Chapter. Their Board of Governors constitutes the entertainment committee and they put on a show every Saturday morning. Last week Jimmie Brown, Marie Simon and Winifred Barclay entertained with songs and dances.

The Joe E. Brown contest was won by Leo Gaus and John Salopeck. Fleece-lined leather coats were won by Irene Grubinski and Ruth Wrono.

HARRIS (ETNA) CHAPTER

The officers elected to conduct the meetings of the Harris, Etna, Chapter for the coming four weeks are: Grand jester, Albert Farmerie; board of governors, Betty Mae Webber, Grace Webber, Lucille Unsolik, Joseph Swigart, Donald McIntyre and George Putts. Five hundred beautifully illustrated books were given away and Manager Morris Henderson staged a barrel of fun for the club.

Christmas Money

First Distribution to 17,000 Depositors of Closed Bank Is Made Ahead of Time.

C. O. Thomas, receiver for the Bank of Pittsburgh, has done a good job in starting the payment of the first distribution to depositors ahead of schedule. A week ago, when it was announced that the First National Bank would take over $14,000,000 of the assets of the closed institution and would pay 50 per cent of deposits, December 10 was set as the date for beginning payments.

Since then the receiver's staff has been working overtime to start the stream of dammed up money flowing into circulation. Today 850 depositors were to receive $3,650,410. Notices will be sent to additional depositors daily. The entire task of distributing funds to the 17,000 depositors will be completed by December 10.

The First National Bank has made special arrangements to facilitate the cashing of receiver's orders. A special staff of tellers will be on hand to make payments or to open new accounts.

Davis' Welfare Gift

The Goal Would Have Been Passed If All Were Proportionately as Generous as the Senator.

In connection with Gov. Pinchot's and Senator Davis' bantering of one another with regard to their gifts to charity it was remarked in these columns that no one acquainted with the characters of the two men would question for a moment the generosity of either.

Davis is revealed as a real philanthropist by the announcement that he has given $5,000 to Allegheny County's Welfare and Emergency Fund, and in addition has donated about $10,000 to other charities, making his total $15,000, or one and a half times his salary as United States Senator.

Davis' income has not been disclosed, but it looks very much as if he was far from bluffing when he offered to give all of it to charity if Pinchot would do the same with his.

At any rate the Senator has set a wonderful example of generosity. If others had given to the Welfare Fund in the same proportion we would now be far beyond the goal instead of $2,000,000 short of it.

It is worthy of special note that when Senator Davis learned the drive was lagging he contributed a second time.

Too Many Deer

Shooting of Does, by Preventing Death from Starvation, May Be an Act of Mercy.

The abundance of deer in Pennsylvania can be surmised from the fact that several were killed in Allegheny County within an hour or two after the opening of the season at daybreak yesterday. In adjoining counties scores were slaughtered.

Pennsylvania's large deer population was built up under a protective policy which prohibited the killing of females. To sportsmen trained to this policy it seems little short of sacrilege that does should be shot.

The consequence is that many sportsmen are outraged over the Game Commission's action in authorizing the killing of does. Petitions bearing thousands of signatures have gone to Gov. Pinchot asking him to rescind the permission.

Pinchot having answered that he is powerless, sportsmen are being asked by various organizations to pledge themselves voluntarily not to shoot female deer.

The motive behind this movement is praiseworthy, but a mistake is being made.

The fact is—and it has been amply corroborated by the United States Biological Survey and other disinterested agencies of investigation—that Pennsylvania now has more deer than it can feed. Great numbers die of starvation every winter. It is a pitiful sight to see forest areas in which the bark has been chewed off of trees as high as the starving animals can reach.

To kill the does may be an act of mercy.

Politics as a Vocation

The Country Would Benefit by Active Participation Of Good People in Public Affairs.

Senator David A. Reed gave Wilkinsburg High School students startling advice yesterday.

He advised them to consider politics as a profession.

The advice was startling because politics is commonly regarded as a dirty business in which decent people will not actively participate.

Reed anticipated such a reply to his advice by saying politics is only dirty when the politicians play the game that way.

Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, and indeed every political division in the country, and the country as a whole, would benefit by active participation of good people in public affairs.

The dirty politicians who steal elections and plunder the taxpayers and mismanage the government have their way only because honest people let them.

They Know 110 Trees

Connellsville High School Students Have Learned Something Unusual.

The identification of native trees and shrubs is part of the course in botany. A two-hour test was recently given 27 of the students. They were shown 110 kinds of trees and shrubs and asked to name them.

Six of the students identified at sight, and classified according to families, the entire 110. Eight identified and classified 100, 10 identified and classified over 80, and the others over 60.

These pupils are in possession of knowledge that is far from common. It is valuable knowledge. It may not help them to make money unless they engage in the lumber or forestry business. But it will be a satisfaction to them all their lives to know at a glance what kinds of trees they see about them and something of their nature and affiliations.

Enough to arm in self-defense?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—New York as I first saw it: The midget traffic man who wigwagged a red flag at Herald Square. Broadway's appropriately named press agent—Joe Drum. Wilson Mizner's afternoon gang at Considine's. Frank Ward O'Malley's midnight stop at Jack's. Jack Francis' screaming vests.

Bert Williams' red roadster. Si Goodfriend's silk hat. Oscar Hammerstein's cone-shaped hat. Sunday "concerts" at the Winter Garden. And the runway. A Toxin Worm, who did inward sentimentality by outward gruffness. The blond Melville Ellis at the piano. Laloy's red ink table d'hote. Texas Guinan's poker parties.

Rube Goldberg convulsing the town with his first cartoons. The Campus restaurant and the midget cigarette seller with the deep bass voice. Rennold Wolf's column in the Morning Telegraph. Park Row's terrible twins—Joseph Jefferson O'Neill and Don Clarke. Honest investment houses.

The most picturesque reporter of the day—Herbert Bayard Swope. Werba and Leuscher, the reigning musical comedy producers. The one-legged newsboy at the 72nd street subway. Caruso at the Metropolitan. Tommy Gray, the Rialto's outstanding wit. Herb Roth's caricatures in the Sunday World.

Julian Johnson's apartment on 11th street. Lawrence Reamer's sly reviews in the Sun. Ben Hampton flashing spectacularly across the magazine world. Dewey's on Fulton street. Henry L. Doherty's walk-up apartment on Bridge street. Jessie Reed, the most talked-about show girl.

Visiting ball teams in front of the Ansonia. Metcalfe of Life. The sliding roof at the Globe. Earl and Marcelle Carroll's apartment over Bustanoby's. The Castle Walk. June and Ray Lillibridge's parties. The Ben Hur chariot race in electric lights atop the Hotel Normandy.

They were discussing that venerable lady of some 90-odd years found in a midtown hotel with some $900,000 in old bills hidden on her person. Someone suggested it was fortunate a guardian had finally been appointed for her. "Why a guardian?" observed Aubrey Eads. "She's the smartest woman financially of the day."

Among New York's assortment of eccentrics is a rich lady whose fear of germs is a pronounced phobia. Otherwise she is perfectly normal. She lives in one of the fashionable hospices and her entire apartment is sprayed with a germicide twice daily. Room waiters must wear sanitized rubber gloves when serving meals. At a dressmaking establishment her booth is especially draped with sheets before a fitting and at the theater she buys three seats, occupying the middle and leaving one unoccupied on either side. But another year of depression will likely cure that.

An ungallant New Yorker denied his engagement to a chorus girl the other day with: "Marry that tramp? I should say not." All of which recalls the chivalrous days when false rumor spread that David B. Hill was to wed May Irwin. When reporters cornered him, he said: "No gentleman would think of denying his engagement to such an attractive lady. There is nothing, however, to prevent me denying I have ever met her."

From Zelda, Pittsburgh: "In New York the other day, I talked to you on the phone. You professed to be leaving town, but were pointed out at a theater that evening. Since seeing you I changed my mind. I might add I had a proposition that would have netted you $10,000 for 10 minutes' time. What does that make you?" That dumb, I'd probably make a beautiful chorus girl.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

How much dullness can you endure?

How long can you be content to stay in the same place, doing the same things, without change, excitement, amusement? Can you be content for one day, . . one week . . . one month?

"A month in the same place, doing the same things over and over—nothing ever happening—? Why, I'd go crazy!" you cry. "I'm too high-strung to live like that. Some people have nervous systems that can stand that sort of thing, but I simply have to have a change or I get all on edge."

You say this very emphatically. You believe what you're saying. You're sure that your hunger for excitement is the sign of a very sensitive and intelligent nature. You're certain that all the people who really amount to anything—all the great scientists and statesmen, the writers, actors, artists, live as you'd like to live . . . dramatically . . . with Something Doing all the time. And you're equally sure that people who are content to endure dull monotony never amount to much—they're little better than cows. You certainly do not intend to live like a cow.

Is that the way you feel about dullness? Probably. But you're wrong.

Lives do not grow on the OUTSIDE . . . they grow on the INSIDE. You cannot become powerful by watching the Niagara of the DO-X . . . copyright Clark Gable's smile or growing a couple of chins like Mussolini. You cannot become colorful by cutting your hair like Garbo, echoing the smart chatter you've read in some risque magazine, rushing to night clubs and thinking you're a red hot sinner. Color and power so acquired are "synthetic stuff. Soon fall flat. Like near beer, they haven't the authority."

True personality can't be bought or taught or acquired. It must be ACHIEVED. It must be achieved INSIDE. And you can't achieve anything INSIDE if you're turning dizzy flip-flops OUTSIDE.

All rich lives . . . all powerful, dramatic, magnetic, independent and TRULY CIVILIZED lives are dull lives. They have their moments of excitement, but, for the most part, their outer existence is a hum-drum affair. They go few places, do few things, see few people. Darwin, the great scientist, took but one trip—a journey around the world. The rest of his days he spent in his own home. Kant, the great philosopher, never traveled more than 10 miles from his birthplace. But inwardly, they LIVED EVERY SECOND OF THE TIME.

Yet millions of Bessie Browns and Billy Blacks cry that they'll go "simply cuckoo" if they can't take in a movie at least three times a week, drop in at the pool hall a couple of nights, have an evening of bridge or "go over to Fred 'n' Mabel's" for a Little Party. And they honestly believe that this is a sign of "a high-strung nature" and superior intelligence.

Of course it's quite the opposite. It's a sign that they are still uncivilized . . . still only a couple of squeaks removed from monkey men, who went jottering through the jungle branches, seeking excitement in exactly the same way.

Want to test YOUR degree of civilization? Here's a way. Answer these questions honestly—

What do YOU do of an evening? How long can you amuse and interest yourself when you are alone? How soon do you grow edgey, discontented? How soon do you tire of doing the same things, seeing the same faces, staying in the same places?

In short—how much are you living INSIDE? Or, are you depending for life, monkey-like, on what happens OUTSIDE? And do you get the jitters, like a monkey, if things grow dull?

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mrs. Solomon Says—

Verily, my Daughters, a contented wife is a jewel among women. But, tell me not, O ye Simple Ones, that there is but One Man in her life, who satisfyeth all her heart's desires!

* * *

For, lo. One Man may be the star of a damsel's existence; but a married woman requireth an whole chorus to chant her praises and hang garlands upon her door.

Go to. Who is this that regaleth her with flattering looks and refreshing chatter, while he pointeth out the brightness of her hair and observeth the length of her eyelashes?

* * *

* * *

Who is this that hearkeneth unto her "troubles," with solicitude, and seeketh to "understand" her? Behold, it is her lawyer! He helpeth her to pity herself.

* * *

* * *

Who is this that delighteth her eyes with his grace and beauty, thrilleth her heart with his gallantry, and satisfyeth her aesthetic soul in all his ways and manners? Behold, it is her favorite screen-actor!

* * *

But an husband thinketh himself ANY woman's Prince Charming, in his bare feet, a faded dressing-gown and the remains of yesterday's beard.

Who is this that showeth an unfailing interest in her "symptoms," and holdeth her hand while he encourageth her to tell ALL of her sufferings? Behold, it is her doctor! And his voice is gentler than a crooner's.

* * *

* * *

Who is this that studieth her "personality," admireth the wave in her hair, and findeth her profile more enchanting than a cameo and more "classic" than Garbo's? Behold it is her photographer!

* * *

* * *

For, verily, verily any man can perceive a woman's charms and comprehend her soul-yearnings—provided he be not married to her. But what ONE man could satisfy all of a woman's vanity

Secret Diplomacy, Navy And Hunger Parades

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Through the possible blundering of the State Department or a misinterpretation, a bitter resentment against the American people has been manifested in Japan, and Senator Johnson has called on the government to explain the nature of its Manchurian policy to the American people. Wars have come from just such a state of mind as that in Japan today. And wars have usually come from secret diplomacy hopelessly involving a people without their knowledge or consent.

When Congress convenes, it is to be expected that the American people will be acquainted with the secret commitments of the Administration during the last nine months. We have had secret diplomacy with a vengeance.

No one knows the meaning of the conferences with M. Laval. With some of the agreements we are familiar. We have promised France not to interfere in European affairs again without a consultation with her. But just what agreements were made regarding the debts no one outside the sacred circle knows. The recent speech of Laval indicates unmistakably that plans were made to prepare the way to the reduction or cancellation of the debts and the transfer of the burden to the American people.

The President is to revive a war debt commission which is to study the situation, and in the end to recommend that the American people be permitted to pay all or part of the debts of 14 nations. The commission is to be appointed by the President—and all his commissions have been carefully packed for a purpose.

No one knows why Signor Grandi was so delighted with his conversation with the President. It is time for the American people to know something about the business of the American people.

America Is Disliked By Nations of World

America is thoroughly disliked today by most of the nations of the world. Senator Borah was booed and jeered in Paris the other day; the interpreter of his radio speech on disarmament was mobbed. Japan is on her high horse. And, with the world in this seething state, the charge is made that the administration is reducing the efficiency of our navy—our one great instrument of defense.

The Navy League made serious charges; the President demanded an apology, which was refused; the League answered the defense of the administration's hand-picked jury and blew it into smithereens; the Republican Herald Tribune was shocked at the character of the administration's defense and suggested that Mr. Hoover does not understand the responsibility of the fleet.

And, with the Administration demanding reductions in appropriations for the proper maintenance of our great instrument of defense, Secretary of the Navy Adams startles the nation with a demand for more money instead of less. With the world atmosphere heavily charged with the potentialities of war, Mr. Adams tells us this:

"Allowances for 1931 were less than those of 1930, and the allowances for 1932 will be less than for 1931."

And to this he adds:

"The most experienced and far-seeing officers feel that amounts reasonably in excess of those being annually appropriated can be used advantageously—in fact are essential to provide adequately for the Navy's minimum requirements within treaty limits."

The American people will expect their Congress to ascertain and to proclaim the truth of the serious charge that the President's economy program does not "provide adequately for the Navy's minimum requirements within treaty limits."

'Hunger Parade' Futile Gesture

We have no sympathy with the silly "hunger parade" to Washington, because of its futility. Even human misery is entitled to a certain dignity, and to make a mockery of suffering is wicked. We need no such demonstration to persuade us that women and children are in dire distress and millions of breadwinners out of work. We can see it from our windows. But hungry folk forget their "polish," and when hunger gnaws at the stomach we cannot expect the victim to "writhe with grace, and groan with melody." They just won't.

The administration's report on this silly parade as "communistic" will be taken, however, with reservations. There will be communists among them—there always are. This is the breeding season for communism. But all men who are hungry, all who cry out in protest when they want to work and must eat the bread of charity or starve, all who do and say irrational things when their children grow thin and wan from hunger, are not Communists. They are human beings—victims of the stupidities of greed and government; and greed and government under such conditions traditionally have sought to push them beyond the pale of human sympathy by raising the hue and cry of "communist" and "anarchist."

* * *

'Communist' Cry Is an Old One

Some time turn the pages of New York newspapers of 1874, as I have done, and learn that all the thousands of men, women and children sleeping in hallways, and starving, were but unreasonable "Communists" because of their complaining. When hungry men assembled in public meetings in Union Square, and elsewhere, they were set upon by the police with clubs and beaten into insensibility and the press invariably described them as "Communists." And all because there were perhaps a score of French Communists in the city making the most of the harvest time. The favorite editorial description of the jobless was "loafers." It was in the day when labor unionists were denounced as enemies of American institutions; when organization among the workers was attacked as "not the American way."

We have grown less indifferent to human misery through the years and we are more prone to give the jobless bread than stones; and vast amounts are being raised by private charity, and by all governmental units save one. That one—the federal government—has stood aloof—refusing to consider a prosperity loan to put a great army to work, and passing the responsibility for preventing starvation in America to individuals. However, if private charity, and cities, counties and states cannot raise sufficient funds, the federal government must make up the deficit, and shall.

* * *

'Surplus' Is Brutal Word to Unemployed

As the opening of Congress approaches we are hearing much about the need of weakening the anti-trust laws to make it possible for manufacturers of products to enter into agreements to curtail production to prevent the present "surplus." We wish to hear no more of "surplus." What a brutal word it is to be thrown in the teeth of the hungry! There is no "surplus," no over-production; but there is an under-consumption, and the problem of enlightened statesmanship is not so much to find a way to curtail production as to increase consumption so that people all may have what health requires in food and clothing. What a savage system it would be to calculate that since in a town of 10,000, 3,000 are jobless and unable to buy what health and comfort require, an agreement should be made to produce for but 7,000. Even political economy cannot brush human beings off the earth that way.
